CFA CHAMPIONS

Once again, the Upper Murray has dug deep to support the Good Friday Royal Children's Hospital Appeal, proving it is one of the most generous communities in Victoria. The local CFA brigades have been staunch supporters of the Appeal for decades and volunteers rattled tins throughout Corryong including the main street (pictured). A total of $26,061 was raised locally which compares more than favourably to larger centres such as Wodonga ($99,963) and Albury ($81,353).

Swan song?

While the Upper Murray Football Netball League (UMFNL) season kicks off this Saturday, there is still significant doubt about whether the Federal club will compete this season.

The Swans have a small window to consolidate their position with a bye in the first round, while Corryong hosts Bullioh and Tumarumba travels to Cudgewa. The Swans have not been able to secure the player numbers to field a senior football team because of a lack of numbers, although they indicated that they would be able to field a reserves side.

In an open letter to the sporting community (Corryong Courier, March 17, 2022), the Swans appealed for local support but their plea failed to boost playing numbers.

The club applied to the league to only field a reserves football team in 2022 but this was rejected when the other four clubs voted that the Swans be required to have a senior team.

The greater fallout from that decision is Federals will not be able to field netball sides either, as the league constitution specifies that all competing clubs must have a senior football team.

League officials will meet on Monday night to try and find a last ditch solution to the Swans' dilemma.

Poppies represent the individual's spirit

By Honor Auchinleck

Mural artist, Simon White, was back in Corryong recently to add a mural to the Memorial Hall wall adjacent to the garden - just in time for Anzac Day.

He had prepared himself thoroughly with a magnificent concept drawing and he is a fast worker! Two days before Easter he created a striking mural of a field of poppies.

The scene could be a WWI battlefield on the Western Front depicted beneath the slightly misty summer skies of northern France. The mural shows the poignant silhouette of a soldier, standing in mourning before a temporary wooden cross used to mark the graves of the fallen before the Commonwealth War

Graves created the cemeteries.

Rather than the formulaic poppy designs that seem to proliferate at many of our commemorations, Simon has created a quality artwork which encourages people to take inspiration and strength from aesthetic beauty and its relationship to the natural world.

Like military units, poppies have a similarity but again, just like people, they are all different too, with their petals picking up different currents in the breeze. Some people think this individuality reflects the individuality in mankind and particularly among service personnel.

If some think the images of the poppies and daisies are too large, this is because the mural needs to be visible from most places in the gardens and from Donaldson Street, thus drawing people in to see it.

The mural could well remind us of the power of Remembrance, not just of our fallen but those from all walks of life and ethnic groups who have served our community faithfully and made us what we are today. The mural might even remind and encourage everyone to believe that their community needs each and every person and their contributions.

For Anzac Day 2022, poppies will bring the unspoken memories into our midst - poppies often embody the memories and the unspoken words in Anzac Day commemorations. The spirit of Anzac is made up of an infinite number of stories and the number will grow as long as Australian service personnel continue to serve in some of the world's many trouble spots.

Poppies first became associated with the fallen and Remembrance during WWI. Each summer poppies grew in the most unlikely places on battlefields and ruins of buildings and they still do. As well as reminding us of loss, poppies are symbolic of regeneration.

In 1915 the Canadian Army doctor, John McCrae, in his poem 'In Flanders Fields' drew attention to the link between poppies and the fallen in the well known lines

'In Flanders fields the poppies blow, between the crosses, row on row'.

Soldiers used to pick poppies on the battlefields and some, perhaps wanting to hold a particular moment in their memories, pressed them between the pages of field notebooks and poetry and prayer books. Others wanting to send something beautiful to loved ones, pressed poppies and or wildflowers between the pages of letters, only to find that once picked, the blooms were fragile and disintegrated.

Local historian, John Murphy, tells a story about Charlie Lebner who, some years after he returned from WWI, found poppies growing in a gully on Mt Elliot. Apparently he attributed the blooms to another ex-serviceman who had picked them on the battlefield and thrust the blooms into his tunic pocket.

Unwittingly, on his return when he was wearing his tunic for warmth, he decided to turn out his pockets and in doing so, scattered the seed!

Possibly Charlie was telling his own story anonymously and that he was the person who had scattered poppy seeds to create a place to where he could retreat with his memories.

Such was the grief

after WWI that in 1922 the Royal British Legion began to make poppies as symbols of Remembrance of the Fallen. The practice soon spread across the Commonwealth.

The carnage of the WWII and loss of life in subsequent conflicts have further emphasised the red poppy's symbolism in commemoration. People have tried to grow poppies in their gardens, only to find that despite the fragility of the blooms, poppies flourish in the most unlikely places.

Some people and particularly our elderly retired service personnel see poppies as free spirits, perhaps those of loved ones, blowing in the breeze. And so it is that poppies inspire reflection and bring comfort to the bereaved and even to those whose minds are troubled as a result of their service or some of life's other challenges.

Remembrance is for all of us. Everyone has a back-story, no matter from what walk of life they come.

Corryong and the Upper Murray's stories are as rich as anyone's. Pick a name from the role of local people who served their country from the Upper Murray and research their stories.

Simon White's poppies are a treat for our town and district. Our murals give Corryong its place in Victorian regional and commemorative art.

Take your partners

Towong Council is inviting community members to join other adults of all ages to learn or revisit the classic old time dances that never go out of fashion.

Expert instructor, Malcolm Batty, will teach you all you need to know to join in the Pride of Erin, Evening Three Step and a range of partner dances.

Malcolm is currently training the Corryong College Deb set of thirteen couples and regularly teaches ballroom dancing technique at Wagga Wagga and Albury/Wodonga.

Dance sessions are held in the Corryong RSL Hall on Thursdays from 7pm to 9 pm. Tea and coffee are provided. Call or message Kerry on 0428 769 101 to book your spot.

No cost thanks to the Towong Shire Bushfire Recovery Grant.

A celebratory dance is scheduled for June.

Classic turns heads

A restored 1948 Chevrolet ute drew admiring looks wherever it went at last week's Man From Snowy River Bush Festival.

The restoration project was a labour of love for owner and regular visitor to the Upper Murray, Ian O'Brien, who spent 12 years meticulously bringing the classic vehicle back to its former glory.

Donations fund life saving gear

Generous community donations from the 2019/20 bushfires will fund more than 200 breathing apparatus (BA) sets to CFA brigades across the state – some receiving the capability for the first time.

Thanks to the donations, the CFA and Brigades Donations Trust is allocating $2.25m to purchase this important equipment which improves capability and protects the health and safety of firefighters at incidents.

The overall project cost $2.75m, with some brigades choosing to co-fund the project, expanding the program by nearly 20 per cent. Chief Officer, Jason Heffernan, said the project funded one BA set and in some cases the brigade funded the second set.

"The additional funding support from brigades allowed us to extend the scope from 200 BA sets to a total of 234 BA sets and 468 BA cylinders," Mr Heffernan said.

"These are currently being delivered to 116 brigades across the state which will then be installed into their fire trucks.

"At the end of the rollout, 514 brigades will have BA with 43 of those brigades receiving the capability for the first time."

"BA provides important protection to our firefighters' airways from harmful products at fires and other incidents," he said.

"This is critically important for their wellbeing and safety and I thank the community for their generosity."

Chair of the CFA and Brigades Donations Fund, Graeme Jilbert, said it's great to see the community donations going towards such an important project which focuses on increasing the safety of our firefighters.

Festival hosts championships

Corryong's bush festival is based on the iconic 'Man from Snowy River' poem which was written in 1890 by Andrew Barton 'Banjo' Paterson and bush poets and musicians came from all over Australia to celebrate his iconic ode.

Participants also perform other traditional and modern poetry styles as well as introduce their own originals.

This year the Victorian Bush Poetry Championships (VBPC) were held with an experienced judging team led by Graeme Johnson (The Rhymer from Ryde), Melanie Hall and Susie Carcary (Mel and Susie).

Rhonda Tallnash from Violet Town triumphed in the event and was presented with the Matilda Award and Overall Women's Performance Champion, from runner-up Jenny Markwell.

New to Corryong, Andrew Pulsford won the Clancy's Choice Award and Overall Men's Performance Champion with Ken Potter the runner-up. Andrew also won The Recital of the Man from Snowy River poem.

The Open Written Championships were won by John Roberts (Humorous) and David Judge (Serious). David was a novice at the time of entry so was named Novice Written Champion and Overall Written Champion as well.

On Thursday afternoon the Lions hall was packed with students from Corryong College, Sacred Heart, Walwa and Khancoban schools with joyous performances and a display of the Written Championship entries on the wall. The adjoining Banjo's Block hosted the popular Poets Breakfasts, where poets of all grades get up and have a go!

Even in cold and dank conditions, the audience still brought their chairs, oilskin coats and hats to enjoy varied entertainment where everyone is welcome. Poets on 'L' plates shakily read from scraps of paper alongside stars of the poetry world who love to catch up with fellow poets and share their mutual love of rhyming metered verses in the style of Paterson, Lawson, et al and of course, that wonderful bush poet - Ann Nonymous!

"The festival is a kaleidoscope of bush skills, horse events, re-enactment of Banjo Paterson's poem, art and photography, along with music and verse and it encapsulates and celebrates all which is wonderful about friendship in Australia and it connects traditional bush skills with modern ones celebrating good, old fashioned values," said poetry co-ordinator, Jan Lewis.

Fallen heroes remembered at festival

Continued from page 5: Visiting poets admired the RSL car park's wonderful new mural depicting Banjo Paterson, the muster of horses for WW1, Lighthorsemen, fighting in the desert and the homecoming to the Upper Murray.

Then followed a memorable two hour RSL concert where 'The Faces on the Wall' were honoured, a concert featuring 15 performers with poems and songs in gratitude for the men and women who fought so that we could have the privileged life we have today.

"Breakfast, morning tea, lunches, afternoon tea and dinner were superbly catered for by Kim and Greg and their food van 'Melting Madness' and cuppas courtesy of the Victorian Bush Poetry and Music association were dispensed by volunteers," Jan said.

"Sincere thanks to all the volunteers, judging teams, MCs, sponsors and of course poets and musos."

Just before it was all over and the hall emptied of its decorations, Jan announced her intention to resign her position she has held since 1997 and her long-time partner, Linton Vogel, will follow suit.

The event needs a new co-ordinator and/or if anyone has any ideas as to how this event will continue, they can contact the festival office via email at admin@bushfestival.com.

Find our worst roads

Victorians are being asked by the Victorian Opposition to name the state's worst roads in a new campaign to identify the most dangerous hazards that are risking lives on our roads every single day.

Launched by Opposition Leader, Matthew Guy and Shadow Minister for Roads, Steph Ryan, the three-month campaign to find Victoria's worst roads will seek safety reports straight from drivers.

"Decades of neglect has left Victoria's roads rough and potholed, risking the lives of motorcyclists, car drivers and truckies every single day," Mr Guy said.

Victorians are encouraged to submit road condition reports as they travel the state via an online portal in an effort to build a list of the roads most in need of maintenance - visit the online portal at VicsWorstRoad.vote.

FUNERALS

SIMPSON - A celebration of the life of Ian Simpson will be held on Sunday, April 24th, 2022 at 61 Simpson's Creek Track, Nariel Valley, at 4pm.

A wake will follow at 6pm, where a limited amount of food and drinks will be provided.

If you intend to stay for the celebration, please bring a plate of food to share and a chair. Please RSVP to Tessa Morecroft (tessa_rose@live.com) by Friday April 22nd and refer any questions to her.

Please note that there will also be a memorial at the Nariel Creek Folk Festival in December, which will be open to all.

Ian's last wish was to have his beautiful property that he loved so much maintained into the future and kept in the family for his grandchildren to enjoy for many years to come.

In lieu of flowers, the family would greatly appreciate any memorial donations to be made to the following 'Go Fund Me page' to help the family manage his property - <https://gofund.me/94dbd732>.

THANKS

SIMPSON - The family of the late Ian Simpson wishes to send a special thank you to Ray, Jamie and Julie and the staff at the Albury Base Hospital Cancer Ward for their incredible care, compassion and dedication in the final weeks of Ian's life and to all the friends and family who sent messages of support and love during his illness.

Upper Murray Sport

Easter event draws a good field

The annual Corryong Grande 3-person ambrose was contested by 17 teams on Sunday with an Albury team setting a record scratch score for the event.

Murray District captain, Travis Merritt, was partnered by Zac O'Collins and Robert Williams and the trio, playing off a 0.5 handicap, scorched around the course with a 61 off the stick to win the scratch competition.

The runners-up with 68 were Greg Gibbs and Susan McKimmie who played with her grandson Dylan, a scratch golfer who is visiting from the UK.

The handicap winners were Scott Prior, Mark Mitchell and Jimmy He with a nett 58.67 on countback from Richard Bennetts, Henry Byrne and Mark Densley. In third place with a nett 60.34 were Lance Noonan, Bill Bond and Dave Stevenson.

Other prizes went to Owen Bennetts and Robert Newnham (NTPs), Zac O'Collins (longest drive) and Garth Crosswaite (straightest drive).

There was much positive feedback about the condition of the course and the catering for the event and thanks go to everyone involved in making the day such a great success.

With some clear air now that the bush festival and two tournaments are over and daylight savings has finished, the Sunday start time will be 11.30am for a 12 noon hit-off for nine holes.

Members will be canvassed as to whether this time suits the majority or if there is a preference to have a day-long competition ie. play at any time.

Welaregang

There are still tee spots available for teams to compete in the Weyhausen Cup 2-person ambrose this Sunday April 24th. Contact Lance Noonan on 0419 927 470 or enter

Season starts under a cloud

The Upper Murray Football Netball League (UMFNL) season kicks off this Saturday but there is still significant doubt about whether the Federal club will take its place this season because of the lack of a senior football team (see story on page 1).

Notwithstanding four clubs will do battle on Saturday when Corryong hosts Bullioh and Tumberumba travels to Cudgewa.

The pandemic restrictions have had a devastating effect on football numbers across the board and it will take several weeks to identify the frontrunners for finals in the local league.

All five clubs have new coaches this season and will undoubtedly bring a host of new faces with them.

Before the 2021 season came to a halt in July after two interruptions because of the pandemic, Cudgewa was flying at the top of the table with a 9-0 winning record.

The Blues have lost coach, Brayden Carey, who has returned to his original club Beechworth but have looked within their own ranks for leadership and appointed players James McInerney and Luke Bloom as co-coaches.

The duo will have their charges primed to atone for the Blues' shock loss in the 2019 grand final, after the last two seasons have been written off because of the pandemic.

Hunter Clayton is in charge of Tumberumba's quest for higher honours and the Roos will be determined to improve after sitting second on the ladder in 2021 with a 5-3 record.

They get their chance to make up ground on last year's frontrunners on Saturday but the Blues have a real point to prove and are favoured to win comfortably at home.

Corryong will take the field under the tutelage of former premiership player and non-playing coach, Danny De Marte. The Demons are an unknown quantity but will be well drilled for their first assignment against Bullioh this week.

Former Border-Walwa coach, Craig Bosley, takes the reins at Bullioh which also sat 5-3 before last season's halt and the frequent finalists will be prominent come season's end.

The Bulldogs have talent across all lines and their firepower and flexibility is likely to prove too much for the young Demons.
