Recovery funds flow in

The Towong Shire and Snowy Valleys Council area have been big winners under the National Bushfire Recovery Fund.

The Australian government has provided funding of $25.4M for 46 local community projects in the electorate of Indi under the Black Summer Bushfire Recovery Grants program with 16 of those being in the Towong Shire, valued at $5.727M. Two of the big ticket items are $822,000 for ChildSPACE and $882,000 for an upgrade of the Corryong Skate Park.

Another priority project is the installation of a secure 24-hour fuel facility at Corryong at a cost of $417,000 which will be located at AG Warehouse.

The Snowy Valleys Council (SVC) has received $7.654M for projects including $997,000 for the upgrade of the Tooma Hall and $1,482,050 for the Tumbarumba and Upper Murray Energy Resilience and Reliability project.

Towong Council will also share in funding of $12.7M with other Indi shires for support programs while Snowy Valleys will share in $7.256M for support through the Red Cross.

Nationals Senate Leader and Senator for Victoria, Bridget McKenzie, said the overall program funding was boosted to $390 million to further support communities around Australia to recover from the 2019-20 bushfires.

"As part of the $2.1

billion National Bushfire Recovery Fund, the Black Summer Bushfire Recovery Grants program is backing projects which the affected communities have said will best support their ongoing recovery," Senator McKenzie said. "The grants will fund a broad range of recovery and resilience projects, from social and community well-being right through to projects that support local jobs, small businesses and infrastructure.

"It was important that we funded projects based on need and merit and which offered a lasting and tangible impact, tailored to local needs and conditions. The quality of the projects funded shows that our 'locally led' approach works.

"We understand that recovery from bushfires takes time and we will continue to support impacted communities through their recovery from the devastating Black Summer bushfires," Senator McKenzie said.

Towong Shire Projects:- Renovations to the Lucyvale Hall $326,848; Upgrading Amenity at Dartmouth Hall to prepare for future emergencies $80,433; Tallangatta Creek footbridge $560,281; Corryong Evacuation Centre: Disaster Protection Project $573,650; Mitta Mitta Camp Draft Facility $125,000; Berringa Peninsula Community Network 3 Halls Project $564,842; Conversion of a bowling green to an artificial lawn bowling green system $157,850; Emergency Secure Storage Shed $48,870; ChildSPACE $821,982; Upper Murray Youth (Recovery) $211,679; Corryong 24 hour fuel security at AG Warehouse $417,454; Walwa Recreation Reserve Resilience Enhancements Project $571,021; Corryong Skate Park Upgrade $882,000; Man From Snowy River Bush Festival and Community Ablutions Infrastructure $710,000; Cudgewa Avenue of Honour Rejuvenation and Walking Track Upgrades $500,000.

Further details of the projects receiving funding are available on the National Recovery and Resilience Agency website at <https://recovery.gov.au/programs/black-summer-grants>.

The walking path between Walwa and Jingellic is taking shape.

Works on river route move ahead

Infrastructure works on the Great River Road project in the Towong Shire are forging ahead, securing the Upper Murray as a premier destination for drivers, motorcyclists, cyclists, bushwalkers and campers.

The project involves the delivery of eight key elements including town trails, wayside stops and a marketing campaign. Many elements of the project have been identified by the shire's Community Recovery committees to assist in the ongoing recovery process.

Recent works have included commencing the construction of the Pine Mountain Interpretive Centre and the Walwa/Jingellic and Walwa River Access Trails.

Planning for the Towong Lookout is currently underway, with construction set to commence later this year.

The installation of four large scale artworks along with interpretive signage and furniture will be delivered as the final stages of the project. Planning, including public consultation for these elements is scheduled to commence in April.

Towong mayor, Cr Andrew Whitehead, has identified the project as a priority for council.

"Delivering this project is an essential element of our ongoing commitment to recovery and is a priority in our extensive capital works program for this year," he said.

"It's exciting to see construction forging ahead after the summer break and seeing these important projects being brought to life."

This project is funded by a $5 million grant from the Victorian government's Bushfire Recovery Regional Economic Stimulus and Resilience Fund.

For more information about the project, including the schedule, visit towong.vic.gov.au and search Great River Road.

‘Thinking of you on this day’

By Honor Auchinleck

15 February 1942 – the date Singapore fell to the Japanese in the Second World War - is a date firmly etched into the souls of those of us who had significant family members who served in the 8th Division 2AIF in 1941 Malaya and were on Singapore at the time of the surrender.

I have the letters and telegrams that passed between my grandmother Winifred and my father Tom Mitchell after he returned from the war in October 1945.

Among that correspondence are telegrams my grandmother sent each year for the rest of her life worded, ‘Thinking of you on this day 15 February’ 1942.

Tom was one of approximately AIF 15,000 survivors of the Japanese invasion of Singapore. Tom often referred to his relative good fortune of having remained as a POW in Changi and not having been sent to the Burma Railway or to Borneo. ‘Changi’ he said, ‘was a relative holiday camp.’

Fearing worse was coming in early February 1942 Tom sent home 11 diary books he had kept from April 1941 when he arrived in Malaya to serve as an Intelligence officer in the headquarters of the 8th Division AIF. Just prior to Singapore falling to the Japanese he had ripped out the diary pages from book 12 with entries from 1 – 15 February 1942. He felt it was a necessary precaution in case the diary fell into enemy hands. Book 12 beginning on 16 February starts with the laconic entry ‘First day as P.O.W. Woke up and all unusually quiet. Breakfast a small cube of bully [beef] and a biscuit. Felt very unwashed. Pat O’Donnell came to my rescue and I used his razor. Very crowded. Heard we had tossed in the sponge at 2200 last night. A few fellows reported seeing Japanese in lorries.’

For the normally loquacious Tom, this sparse, out of character entry and reaction to what was one of the most defining moments in his life was best explained as a possible result of head injuries he had sustained in a car accident six days earlier on 10 February 1942. Tom’s records also suggest he was ‘concussed during a bombing raid’ and he was admitted to 10 Australian General Hospital the following day. Tom didn’t hear about the circumstances of his accident until some three weeks later. Apparently he was travelling along Bukit Timah Road and the Provosts had just ordered a big Chinese lorry to move on when the vehicle in which he was travelling drove under its behind. The Provosts pulled Tom out of the car in which he had been travelling - it was a complete wreck.

Trauma, the painful feeling of shame engendered over the surrender and uncertainty surrounding the future as a Prisoner of War would have been numbing and silencing. It was well known that the British Prime Minister Winston Churchill had expected the Allies to fight to the last man and that in signing the surrender General Percival (General Officer Commanding (GOC) Malaya) had sealed one of the biggest defeats in history.

Tellingly on 3 March, Tom wrote in his diary, ‘when an order came from the Japs that all officers, whatever their rank, are to wear only one pip on the flap of their left pocket (like a Jap first class-private). It was be great to see Percival cantering along with only one pip on his left tit!’ The remark was bitter.

There is no indication as to whether Tom’s diary entry was written at the time or written at a later date when he was trying to put together the sequence of events immediately prior to and during the time of the surrender. Tom was not to know that he would have three and a half years ahead of him in Changi in which time he and many others tried to work out what had happened to the men who didn’t make it to Changi and where the defence of Singapore had gone wrong. Every survivor of the battle for Singapore would have had his or her own story of what had happened to them and the people around them. On 24 February Tom heard that ‘G.B.’ [General Gordon Bennett, Commander of the 8th Division AIF] had made a break for it as soon as the armistice was signed, Tom remarked, ‘If so, a bad show.’

Meanwhile neither Tom’s wife Elyne nor his mother Winifred knew if Tom had survived the battle and if he had, what had become of him. A desperate silence must have fallen for all parents, wives, siblings and children at home as they heard news of the surrender and wondered what had happened to their loved one and what had become of them if they were injured. Families had a long wait before they received news.

Dairying stalwart continues to put in

A man passionate about standing up for dairy farmers and his region has been recognised with an 'Udderly Grateful' award at a recent Dare to Dairy dinner in Corryong.

Back in 1973 when the dairy industry hit a patch where the milk price was poor, Gordon Nicholas - at the young age of 20 - rallied the farmers of the Corryong district and encouraged them to head to Melbourne to march the streets to advocate for $0.50 a pound of butterfat for all dairy farmers.

This was the beginning of a lifetime passion and commitment to 'putting in'.

Gordon helped organise a dairy dinner in Corryong with the United Dairy Farmers of Victoria (UDV) where 500 people attended.

He has been a long term representative for the North East on the central council of the UDV which has meant many hours of commitment and travel, providing the regional dairy community a voice at state level on policy development.

He was also a key local organiser of Dairy Sunday - an annual event where any community members were invited to come and watch cows be milked.

Gordon also stayed involved with more local committees including being a representative for unregulated streams.

He also represented the Upper Murray and Mitta on the North East Catchment Management Authority (NECMA) on its implementation committee and chaired the North East Target 10 committee from 1992 until 2005.

Gordon's commitment to advocate for dairy farmers across the region has been second to none.

Apart from his passion for dairying, Gordon has been a staunch advocate of local football including serving as the president of the Upper Murray Football Netball League for around 30 years.

He is a Life Member of the organisation and was a recipient of the AFL Merit Award in 2018 (pictured).

He has also held nearly every position on the executive of his beloved Corryong Football Netball club and is a Life Member.

Gordon's other community interests include the CFA and he has been a member of the Biggara brigade since 1971 and captain since 2010.

Changi brought out the best and worst in mankind

Undoubtedly, many would have received the letters they had written to their loved ones returned and stamped by the Army Postal Service 'Delivery Impractical Return to Sender'.

Elyne recorded her own heartfelt thoughts about the Fall of Singapore in a diary that eventually became one of Elyne's most moving books Speak to the Earth. She wrote, 'Enclosing all the valley, lay the blue-veiled crags of the Australian Alps, but for once they held no thrilling message for the future, and I was afraid.

'The land seemed silent and sorrowing too. Could it feel the severance of the out-poured lives, as its sons were dying on the soil of Singapore? Did the land sense, too, the times to come of unspent grief?'

On 20 June 1942 Tom printed and signed a card addressed to Elyne saying: 'My Darling Wife, I have recovered from a slight head injury. My health is perfect. I am being very well treated. Love to all'. Tom's understated comment about his head injury and his remark about the treatment was expedient but did not reflect the reality of how the POWs were being treated by their captors. There is no indication of when Elyne received the card;

it was preserved together with a bundle of Tom's war correspondence. In his diary entries in the years that followed, Tom recorded the many acts of kindness he experienced as a prisoner in Changi and in particular the many kindnesses of Cudgewa man, Peter Chitty. On 4 March Tom wrote that 'young Jack Smerdon from Walwa, after retreating across the Causeway 'came to a house and found my suitcase and field glasses. He rescued them and a couple of photos of Towong.' He gave them to Peter Chitty who brought them to Tom. Tom used to tell me that he had seen some of the very best and some of the worst of mankind in Changi.

Tom's head injuries were to plague him for his remaining years but like many returned service personnel in our community, he did his best to ensure that his affliction did not get in the way of his service to the community and his deep-seated need to do his duty. He had his first tilt at winning the seat of Benambra in 1935 and then again two years later in 1937 when once again he was unsuccessful against the sitting member Roy Paton. Eventually he was elected in a by-election in June 1947 brought about by Roy Paton's death. He served in the Victorian Parliament for twenty-nine years.

Tom always thought he was fortunate to have survived the War and fortunate to have had a home to which he could return. I don't think he ever considered that he was vulnerable or 'damaged' by his wartime experiences, rather that those experiences were an inspiration to try and make a better future.

In a different way, the war years also became an inspiration for Elyne who donated her first royalty cheque for her book Australia's Alps to the Department of Defence for the purchase of aircraft for the war effort. From that time on, Elyne saw her writing as her gift to the community.

This year we mark the 80th anniversary of the Fall of Singapore. Tom died 38 years ago on 4 February 2022 so I can't tell him that I still think of him on 15 February even though I have done so for more than five decades ever since I began to understand the significance of the events that took place.

Lest We Forget.

We will always remember you.*

LEBNER, Enid - With a broken heart we must say goodbye to a wonderful Mum, mother-in-law, Nan and Great Nan.

I was blessed to have you as a mother and in my life for so long.

I am so thankful that your health was good up to a few weeks ago and that you got to live in your own home until the last few days of your wonderful life.

A massive thanks to Leonie who made this possible for both Mum and Dad.

Thank you for the years of love, caring and all the scrumptious cooking.

Also, many thanks to the staff at Corryong Hospital for their love and compassion.

Give Pa, Bryan and Greg a big hug from us.

Rest in Peace.

Forever in our hearts.
Love Debbie, Ray, Gav, Mel, Jas, Mel and little Bryan xx

Roll on! ~ The Hammer

Blues appoint new mentors

Cudgewa has looked within in its own ranks for leadership for the 2022 season after announcing prominent players Luke Bloom and James McInerney as co-coaches.

The pair replaces Bryden Carey in the role after his departure to former club Beechworth.

The Blues will be out to make every post a winner this season after the disappointment of a shock loss in the 2019 grand final and last year's competition being abandoned when Cudgewa was sitting on top of the ladder with a 9-0 record.

Other clubs to appoint senior coaches for 2022 are Bullioh - Craig Bosley; Tumbarumba - Hunter Clayton; Federal - Matt Jones; and Corryong - Danny De Marte.

Shock loss opens up final race

Corryong is assured of a place in the Hills Zone pennant final on March 6 after despatching Walwa 4-1 in Sunday's penultimate round but previously undefeated Holbrook opened the door for Batlow to make a run at the other final berth after falling to Batlow 4-1.

The last round is at Tumbarumba this week when Corryong takes on Holbrook in what could be a preview of the final.

Round 6 results 13/2 at Welaregang

Corryong d Walwa 4-1, Batlow d Holbrook 4-1, Tumbarumba d Adelong 4-1.

Passionate staff offer superior service

AGWAREHOUSE Corryong has a very long history of service and support to the local farming families and the wider community.

Store Manager, Peter Joyce, leads the team of experienced staff who have between them more than 60 years serving and advising customers about their needs.

Peter jumped at the opportunity to take on the role of store manager after working in Albury and Myrtleford for five years.

“Our aim is simple and that is to provide quality products at competitive prices along with exceptional customer service,” Peter said.

Building relationships with customers is an integral part of the role for Peter, so whether you operate a large scale operation or you are a lifestyle farmer on a small acreage or live in town and need hardware or pet food supplies, the team at AG Warehouse is happy to offer advice and products to suit your needs.

“Our team is supported by a fully qualified agronomist, Rebecca (Bee) Bingley,” Peter added.

“She is not afraid to look outside the square and has been very helpful to the farming community in the region.

“Community involvement is also very important to AG Warehouse and the staff have been involved in numerous sporting and community groups and have contributed in many ways in the hope of making the local region stronger and more resilient.”

Peter and the team at AG Warehouse Corryong team look forward to continuing to assist and support new and existing customers from the wider local community.

So drop in and say hello and see how the team can help you.

AG Warehouse is located at 989 Murray Valley highway, Corryong, five minutes east of Corryong township. Phone (02) 60761288.

AG WAREHOUSE
