Community invited to bridge opening

Residents and land-owners on both sides of the Murray River will be bouyed by news that the new Towong Bridge will be officially opened next week after being closed for more than a year.

Transport NSW is inviting the Upper Murray community to celebrate the opening of the bridge to traffic in the coming weeks.

Regional Director South, Sam Knight, said the $10 million Towong Bridge - jointly funded by the NSW and Victorian governments as part of the Border Bridge Maintenance Program - will deliver a stronger and longer lasting bridge.

"The new 58-metre-long bridge requires less maintenance and has an increased capacity to carry more traffic and heavier loads," Ms Knight said.

"This will benefit the freight and agricultural industries as well as tourists and local residents."

Ms Knight said the new bridge was expected to be open to traffic in coming weeks, with the community now invited to celebrate at a community event to be held at the campground on the NSW side of the bridge next Tuesday July 18th from 11am to 1pm.

"We would like to thank the community for their patience and understanding during the work, especially motorists who have had 20 minutes added to their journeys via the detours in place," Ms Knight said.

"The community event will give everyone the opportunity to come along and chat to Transport staff who worked on the bridge, enjoy a sausage sizzle and a coffee and celebrate the official opening."

Ms Knight said Towong Bridge is an important link across the Murray River for local residents in the Snowy Valleys Council LGA in NSW and the Towong Shire in Victoria.

"The new two-metre wide shared pathway along one side of the bridge will further add to the connectivity across the border, particularly between the campground on the NSW side and Towong in Victoria," Ms Knight said.

"Work on the new landmark started in April last year with the removal of the old bridge, before construction of the new bridge started two months later.

"The original Towong Bridge was built in 1938 as a timber beam bridge across the Murray River between Bringenbrong in NSW and Towong, in Victoria.

"It had reached the end of its serviceable life. Some timber has been retained and will be given to councils on both sides of the river to use in local projects to celebrate the old bridge.

"Signage will also be installed near the new bridge telling the story of the area and the historical significance of the crossing."

Hall works get late start

A total refurbishment of the Towong Hall is underway

Following several delays, the refurbishment of the Towong Memorial Hall has begun.

A grant of $544,645 under the Australian and Victorian governments' $68.6 million Local Economic Recovery

(LER) program (LER) was announced in January 2021 but the project has been delayed because of the pandemic and contractor availability.

The works include a full upgrade of the hall building, new roof, solar power, insulation and better access.

A grant of $49,370 has also been received under the Towong Shire's Bushfire Recovery Grants for Community Facilities program to construct a new deck at the hall.

The works are expected to be completed in spring.

Flexible funding fills the gaps

A Corryong community group is one of 28 projects that will share $123,850 in grants, thanks to a partnership between Foundation for Rural Regional Renewal (FRRR) and the Gardiner Dairy Foundation.

The Corryong Historic Machinery Club received

$4135 to boost community resilience through building the capacity of the club with an IT upgrade, defibrillator and air conditioning to support operations and provide for further development of the facility.

"We are grateful to the Gardiner Foundation for recognising the importance of communities being able to access flexible funding to fill these gaps and for partnering with us for so long to provide this funding," said FRRR CEO, Natalie Egleton.

"It's great to be able to support them to bring their ideas to fruition."

Water bill increase kept to minimum

North East Water's prices will remain well below the average Victorian water bill in 2023-24 and in line with its commitment to customers in its 2018-26 price path approved by the Victorian Essential Services Commission.

Managing Director, Jo Murdoch, said North East Water (NEW) was working hard to keep customer bills affordable and at the same time invest in critical water and sewerage infrastructure to service growing communities.

"We're investing a record $75 million in new and upgraded infrastructure in 2023-24 to improve services for our customers, reduce energy costs and impacts to the environment, be more climate resilient and provide greater water and waste water security to communities across the region," Ms Murdoch said.

"These investments include master planning for the future as well as upgrades to our waste water treatment facilities, water system upgrades, improvements to clear water storages and more. "This is in addition to supplying high-quality drinking water and sewage services to around 115,000 customers across Victoria's north-east region.

"We also maintain and operate 21 water treatment facilities and 22 wastewater treatment plants, as well as thousands of kilometres of pipes and pumps stretching across a 20,000 square kilometre service region."

Ms Murdoch said while average bills for residential customers have increased by about $1.50 per week ($78 a year), NEW would continue to have one of the lowest average residential customer bills in regional Victoria in 2023-24.

"For any customers experiencing financial difficulties paying their bill, we have a dedicated support team ready to help," she said.

"We have many easy-to-access programs and support services available that can ease the pressure and stress for customers. This includes help with concession card discounts, access to government relief and rebate schemes, payment extensions and payment plans, and referral to financial counselling.

Final Budget 2023/24

Now Available

The Towong Shire Council Budget 2023/24 was formally endorsed at the Ordinary Council Meeting on 28 June.

Central to the Budget is a $1.4 million investment in our local road network across our Pavement Renewal, Re-sheeting and Major Patching program and a $27.8 million capital program including:

- Corryong CBD upgrades
- Wises Creek Road upgrade in Talgarno
- Corryong Heavy Vehicle Bypass (upgrade) Project
- Corryong Skate Park
- Mitta Streetscape
- Playground for Bellbridge Early Years
- Yabba Road upgrade in Tallangatta

The Budget includes a rate increase of 3.5% for 2023/24, which is in line with the cap set by the State government under the Fair Go Rates System.

The kerbside collection charge will increase by 25% ($82 - $102) due to increases in waste transportation and processing costs together with the introduction of an organics kerbside collection service early in 2024.

The additional service is a requirement of the State Government's Circular Economy Policy. There will be no increase to the Waste Facilities Management charge in 2023/24.

Council has increased the discount for rural properties in response to the significant increase in rural property valuations determined by the Valuer-General Victoria.

Children's book resonates with all ages

The author of a book about a young girl growing up beside the Murray River during The Great Depression is coming to Corryong to talk about her work.

Cathy Hope's book 'Murray River Girl' is a true story about Roma, the daughter of a swagman and shearer's cook, who lived in a makeshift tent beside the river until she was eleven years old.

Set in Australia during the era of the Great Depression, polio epidemic and World War II this is the true story of an adventurous little girl and her faithful companion Teddy.

From her birth on April 25th, 1934 until eleven 1945, Roma lived on the banks of the Murray River at Coomealla in New South Wales in a tent home constructed from bush timber and wheat sacks and with a dirt floor.

Prior to Roma's birth, her father was a homeless swaggie without a job. Roma's mother was a shearer's cook so was away from home for about three months very year.

Roma's story evolves as she roams around freely playing at the riverbank and in the bush with her special playmates including indigenous children of the Baakandji River People.

As Roma's adventures unfold the Murray River and its environment, paddle steamers, swaggies, drovers, gypsies, hawkers, travelling circuses, rabbit plagues, drought and dust storms are all featured.

Roma's interaction and relationship with Australian animals and birds is also a highlight of her young life.

Her Anzac Day birthday is focal to her story as well. Themes include friendship, home schooling, connection with nature, courage, hardship, suffering, anxiety, resilience, rite of passage and family and love.

"This true story, that began almost a century ago, is of cultural, social, historical and environmental significance and deserves to be shared," Cathy Hope said.

"For young Australians it mirrors many current struggles.

The author will be giving two talks at the Elyne Mitchell Library on Tuesday 18th July.

Cathy Hope will have copies of her book for sale at the Elyne Mitchell Library.

At 10:30am she will be discussing her book with 60 students from Corryong College and at 1:00pm the public is invited for a talk.

"I'm hoping that for my second talk that there will be older residents from Corryong and surrounds who lived through the Great Depression and who will relate in many ways to this true story," Cathy added.

Signed copies of 'Murray River Girl' will be available on the day for $20.

Footnote:- Julian Bruere, the artist who painted the classic cover for the book also painted alpine scenes for the television series 'Silver Brumby', which was based on a series of books by Elyne Mitchell.

This tent was Roma's home for the first 11 years of her life (note the Coolgardie safe outside the entry).

Be in it to win works funding

The Australian government's recent announcement of the new Growing Regions program offers a significant opportunity for funding of projects that will contribute to the growth and liveability of our region, according to Regional Development Australia (RDA) Hume chair, Eliza Brown.

Writing in RDA Hume's new quarterly e-newsletter, she said the program will provide between $500,000 and $15 million for community-led infrastructure projects.

Grants will cover up to 50 per cent of the cost of a project and are available to local government entities and not-for-profit organisations.

"The aim of the program is to support delivery of community-focused infrastructure that contributes to local and regional priorities," Ms Brown said.

"As the old saying goes 'you have to be in it to win it'."

Growing Regions Round 1 will be delivered in a two-stage process with Stage 1 Expressions of Interest now open and closing on 1 August, 2023.

Snowy Valleys Council launches grants program

Community groups and local non-profit organisations are invited to apply for grant funding under the annual Snowy Valleys Council (SVC) Community Grants program. The 2023 program makes funds available to support a wide range of activities that promote and enhance community wellbeing.

Community grants offer financial support for all sorts of community groups to get new ideas off the ground or secure a resource they need.

Two programs are currently open for applications:-

- Community Strengthening Grants - up to $10,000

- Capital Sports and Recreation Grants - up to $10,000

Over recent years, the scheme has supported organisations to design and deliver popular events, create services and programs to better connect communities.

Successful community strengthening projects funded in 2022 included new high jump mats for Tumbarumba Little Athletics, See Me Hear Me Theatre's production of Planet Man and an outdoor cubby hut for the Tumut Schools as Community Centres.

The Adelong Golf Club received funds through the Capital Sports and Recreation Grants for clubhouse upgrades as did the Tumut Netball Association to cover costs of LED light replacements.

Applications for the 2023 round will be accepted until Monday 31 July, 2023. For more information and to download the application forms and guidelines visit council's website www.svc.nsw.gov.au/community-grants

Rural regions get a seat at the table

An independent inquiry into the way in which renewable energy projects and associated infrastructure will impact and deliver for regional communities will give residents in North East Victoria the opportunity to have their say.

Minister for Climate Change and Energy, Chris Bowen, announced a review last week to enhance community support and ensure that electricity transmission and renewable energy developments deliver for communities, landholders and traditional owners.

Federal Member for Indi, Helen Haines, worked closely with Minister Bowen to put the interests of regional Australia on the table in the review, ensuring the Terms of Reference would properly cover the opportunities and challenges being faced in Indi and around regional Australia.

"Regional Australia will be the home of this country's renewable energy transition," Dr Haines said.

"The vast bulk of our new renewable energy system will be built in regional Australia, stretching from Esperance to Gippsland to Cape York.

"Renewables are being developed at a lightning pace right across our continent but we must listen to the communities affected and make sure we get it right or we risk failing to meet our emissions reduction and renewable energy targets."

Alongside Independent Senator for the ACT David Pocock, Dr Haines worked with the government to ensure the review will be able to consider issues important to her community, including the impact of renewable energy projects on agricultural land, emergency management, fire and biosecurity risks and increases in landholder insurance premiums.

Dr Haines said there were several existing and planned large-scale renewable energy projects in her electorate including the Winton Solar Farm, the Glenrowan Solar Farm and Meadow Creek Solar Farm. While her constituents largely support the transition to renewable energy, Dr Haines said the impact of large-scale renewable energy projects on regional communities did not receive enough attention, especially as these communities would also bear the risks.

"We can't have big companies roll into town, steamroll the objections of communities then take all the benefits offshore, leaving locals with nothing," she said.

"We need to ask who benefits from renewables infrastructure, and are the host communities being brought along in the process?"

Dr Haines also ensured that benefit-sharing with local communities would be examined by the review including any financial benefits, local employment opportunities and skills development.

"Everyday regional Australians should get a fair share of the benefits of the current boom in renewable energy projects," she said.

"This means jobs, training, and the opportunity to take up a stake by co-investing in local projects.

Dr Haines has led the way in federal politics in the push for communities to benefit from the transition to renewable energy including through the development of the Local Power Plan and the introduction of the Australian Local Power Agency Bill in the last parliament.

The review will be conducted by the Australian Energy and Infrastructure Commissioner, Andrew Dyer, and will conduct rural and regional Australia roundtables including with community, worker, farmer and industry participation.

More firefighters needed for region

Forest Fire Management (FFMVic) is looking for people across north east Victoria who are keen to work outdoors, learn new skills and help protect the community and the environment.

Applications are now open for project firefighter roles across 18 locations including Corryong, Tallangatta, Mitta Mitta, Alexandra, Marysville, Toolangi, Broadford, King-lake, Benalla, Mansfield, Wangaratta, Yarrowonga, Nathalia, Shepparton, Beechworth, Bright, Ovens and Mount Beauty.

“These fixed-term positions are a fantastic opportunity for people from all walks of life, who are physically fit, to get out in the bush, protect our region from bushfires and help maintain public land,” FFMVic Deputy Chief Fire Officer, Jarrod Hayse, said.

“New recruits will be involved in responding to bushfires, conducting planned burns, looking after recreation areas, pest and weed control, maintaining access to fire trails and roads, and supporting other emergency work to help protect the community and environment.

Project firefighter positions are now open.

“They can also be called on to support other emergencies like last year’s Victorian floods. Many of the forest firefighters deployed to the current Canadian bushfires started their careers as project firefighters.”

FFMVic recruits seasonal project firefighters each year.

Roles include general firefighters, fire support officers and rappel crew firefighters. Firefighters are employed on a full-time basis for a fixed term period from October until April. There are also positions designated for Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people, reflecting the government’s commitment to a diverse workforce that reflects the wider community.

Mr Hayse said ideal candidates would be fit and healthy and hold a current manual driver’s licence.

“Successful recruits will be fully trained and get the opportunity to work with experienced staff from a range of fire management agencies across the state,” he said.

“These are very rewarding roles, where no two days are ever the same.”

Applications are now open and close on 30 July, 2023. To apply, visit jobs.careers.vic.gov.au/pff or call 136 186.

Agencies work together to protect communities

Following a wetter than average June in much of Victoria and three years of La Niña conditions, the Victoria State Emergency Service (VICSES) in North East Victoria is working with the Bureau of Meteorology (BoM) and surrounding water authorities to share preparedness advice and monitor local conditions and help to reassure the public.

“Climate models suggest that, from mid-July, communities along the Murray River have a greater chance of seeing below median rainfall and therefore drier than usual conditions,” said VICSES Hume Duty Officer, Michael Isbister.

“However, catchments are wetter than normal and there is always the chance of significant rain events at this time of year, so high flows are likely and riverine flooding is still possible.

“Some catchments respond more quickly to normal winter rainfall, so we might see catchments tip into minor flood level multiple times over the season.”

During the winter and spring period local water authorities, and catchment management authorities (CMAs), along with VICSES and the BoM, will continue to provide warnings and advice through the VicEmergency app, the bureau’s website and weather app.

“Our message for the rest of winter is to be prepared but not afraid,” Mr Isbister said.

“Communities are encouraged to take the following steps to prepare for and mitigate flood-related incidents or storm damage to homes or property,” he added.

- Update your VicEmergency app and set up a Watch Zone for your locality or travel destination.

- Update your location on the BoM Weather App.

- Heed advice warnings, particularly for risk of riverine or flash flooding.

- Clean your gutters, downpipes and drains, to avoid flood-related incidents.

- Tie down loose object during storms and check for falling trees.

“All agencies are keenly aware of the concerns felt by residents in recently flood-affected communities and this is why we are in constant contact to manage our rivers and catchments, as well our approach to any weather events which pass through our state,” Mr Isbister said.

Volunteers needed to meet emergency response

As disasters increase across Victoria, so does the demand on Australian Red Cross emergency services and the Corryong unit is seeking more volunteers to meet the demand for its services.

There are more than 500 Australian Red Cross emergency services volunteers across Victoria who are vital in providing critical support to communities when disaster strikes, but more are needed.

With Victorians’ experiencing several large-scale disasters over the last five years, Australian Red Cross is calling for more Victorians to put their hand up to help out.

State Manager Emergency Services Victoria, Fyowna Norton, said becoming a volunteer is a wonderful way to make a positive impact on the lives of others, that also opens doors for personal growth and exciting opportunities.

“Our volunteers help people and communities to prepare for, cope with and manage the psychosocial impacts of emergencies before, during and after the event, Ms Norton said.

“They are a vital part of Australian Red Cross’s emergency response.

“Not only do volunteers support people in their own communities but they also have the chance to deploy to other states and territories to be where they are needed most.

“Anyone can volunteer, and we always encourage people from diverse backgrounds and ages to join our volunteer community.

“We hear from many of our volunteers about the new skills they have learnt and the new friends they make during their role with Australian Red Cross.

Tree Removal

Wheeler Street

In our efforts to improve the appearance and safety of Wheeler Street, the liquidambar trees beneath the powerlines will be removed. These trees are reaching the end of their lifespan as well as having endured overpruning to meet safety requirements

Reflective of our Tree Management Plan, Japanese maples and flowering plums have been identified as a more suitable tree for this location. They provide an attractive, sustainable and safer alternative particularly when located under powerlines.

The decision to remove the trees is not something we take lightly, but is essential for the long-term well-being and safety of the street.

The removal and replacement process will take place in the upcoming weeks, and impacted residents will be notified prior to works commencing.

Care continues after conflicts end

Returned serviceman, Ray Waters OAM, is encouraging the community to become involved in Legacy activities to help the families of our veterans.

Ray has been a volunteer Legatee with the Legacy Club of Albury for just shy of 20 years.

A veteran of the Borneo, Malaysia and Vietnam conflicts, Ray became involved in Legacy on his return. Like many veterans, he believed it was his duty to look after the families of those 'mates' who were not fortunate enough to return to Australian shores.

He was working in the Northern Territory in Katherine and Darwin at the time and was introduced to Legacy through a friend.

On his return to Corryong years later, Ray joined the local Returned Services League (RSL) sub-branch and on catching up with fellow veterans he was once again compelled to carry the torch of service. On November 22nd, 2004 he was inducted as a Legatee with the Legacy Club of Albury.

In the early days Ray remembers looking after seven widows and many knew him as that "blond headed bugger" as a boy about the town. Having existing relationships with these ladies helped Ray forge and maintain close bonds over many years however, time marches on and many of his "ladies" have passed on with just two left to check in on.

In recognition of his community service, Ray received the 2015 Corryong Citizen of the Year in the Towong Shire Australia Day awards and was awarded an OAM in the 2019 Queen's Birthday Honours.

Legacy is an iconic organisation which is one of Australia's oldest and most trusted charities with its sole purpose to look after the families of our veterans. Established in Melbourne in 1923, Legacy has its roots in a battlefield promise to 'look after the missus and kids' and for more than a century legatees just like Ray Waters have been quietly getting on with fulfilling that promise.

Currently, Legacy has 44 clubs across Australia and one in London with just on 3400 volunteers that support 40,000 beneficiaries including 1300 children and around 1100 beneficiaries with disabilities.

Legacy provides essential social, financial, advocacy and developmental support to these families so that they can build their best future.

The Legacy Club of Albury was provided with its Charter of Service in 1932 some 10 years after the first Legacy Club was raised in Melbourne and last August it celebrated its 90th anniversary.

Albury Legacy has a broad remit from Khancoban and Corryong to the east, down both sides of the Murray to Corowa and Rutherglen in the west, Mount Beauty and Beechworth to the south and Holbrook and Henty to the north.

The local community of 70 volunteer legatees supports 390 beneficiaries - families of veterans including 30 children and around 10 families from contemporary Defence operations.

Corryong has only a small handful of known widows or families of veterans who have given their life or good health in service to our nation and has a small band of dedicated legatees.

To highlight the contribution of its volunteers, the Legacy Centenary Torch Relay, presented by Defence Health, is taking place in Wodonga and Albury next month.

The relay will travel through the streets of Wodonga and Albury on Saturday August 5th, 2023 and will be carried by 30 local torch bearers who all have a connection to Legacy or the Australian Defence Force.

The torch symbolises the undying flame of Service and Sacrifice. The relay hopes to raise awareness of Legacy, honour the past, thank the present and build a future.

The Torch Relay is a six-month campaign having commenced just prior to Anzac Day this year on those very battlefields in Pozieres in France where that first promise was made. So far, the torch has travelled through the Menin Gate in Belgium and onto London before returning to Australian Shores in Albany, WA.

The torch is currently traversing Australia, being carried by more than 1500 torch bearers on its 55,000km journey visiting the 44 Legacy Clubs and the relay concludes in Melbourne on October 13th.

To find out more download the Legacy 100 Mobile App to track the torch or visit legacytorchrelay.com.au.

Albury Legacy is seeking a new generation of volunteers to continue to carry the undying flame of the Torch of Service to ensure it shines brightly into a new century.

TEE TO GREEN

Welaregang
 Club stewart, Dixie Coutts, had a day out last Sunday week, carding her best score for some time as well as winning her McGrath Cup matchplay tie.
 Dixie's 37 points gave her a three point win in the stableford competition, with Paul Land continuing his good form with 34 points. Rob Cox and Lance Noonan tied for third on 30. Low handicapper, Justin Knott, played catch-up all day in his match against Dixie, eventually going down 5&3, while Paul Land won his match 3&2 over Tony Jarvis.
 In round two of the Phil Cribb Trophy last Sunday, Paul Land continued his great form carding 34 points to establish a very handy 19 point buffer over evergreen Bill Sheather.
 Rob Cox was runner-up on the day with a handy 33 ptoins and Tony Jarvis claimed third place with 26 points on a countback from John Bennett.
 Tony's inward nine was boosted by a great birdie on the 177m par three 18th, with his tee shot lipping out of the cup.
 This Sunday golfers will compete for the Captain's Trophy in the 'very popular' Par competition.
 In other news, the Corryong course remains closed to all golfers to allow it to recover from the recent wet weather and to promote grass growth around the new greens.

Fab four head goals list

There's no prizes for guessing why Cudgewa sits undefeated on top of the ladder with three rounds of the regular season remaining.

Opposition teams have not been able to curb the Blues arsenal of top flight forwards which has contributed to their whopping percentage of 255.53, more than double their nearest rivals in Bullioh (100.0%) and Tumarumba (116.5%).

The Blues have an astonishing six players in the top ten of the Corryong Courier goalkicking award including the leading quartet of Adam Prior (41 goals), coach Drew Cameron (31), last year's winner Nick Brockley (24) and Ben Hall (23). The half dozen is rounded out by Josh Bartel and Darcy McKimmie with 15 and 10 goals respectively.

Cameron has been a revelation since starting the season late due to injury and has kicked bags of 7, 8, 5, 10 in his four games to date. He and Brockley did not play against Bullioh last start but as previous, when any of the 'big four' is out of action the slack is taken up by others with Ben Hall stepping up with seven majors and Prior chipping in with three.

The fortunes of the other three clubs also rely on having a reliable sharpshooter with Dan Hitchens leading the way for Tumarumba with 20 goals and Bullioh possessing a twin attack of Ash Murray (21 goals) and Mackinley Haley-O'Neill (13). Ryan Murray and Brandon Taylor lead the list for Corryong with nine goals apiece.

Two players to miss matches

In a rare instance nowadays, two players accepted two-match bans after pleading guilty to charges of striking each other in the Cudgewa and Bullioh game.

Cudgewa's Lachie Whiteley and Bullioh utility Kelvin Wallace will not be available to play again until the last home and away round on July 29.

This week

Corryong hosts Bullioh on Saturday but a maiden win this season seems out of reach for the Demons even though they have pushed the Dogs in two of their three encounters to date, losing by 24 points in round one and 18 points in round 4. However, an 87-point loss to Bullioh in round seven was more indicative of the Dees form and they will struggle to cause an upset.

Cudgewa faces a danger game against a dangerous Tumarumba but an almost full strength team and home ground advantage should ensure the Blues get the four points.

For one of the few times this season, the Blues are expected to field their power forward setup of Prior, Cameron, Hall and Brockley who is returning from a long injury layoff.
