Merger talks focus around junior options

Speculation has been rife over the last week about the Federal and Corryong Football Netball Clubs holding talks regarding a merger, given the parlous state of both of their football playing lists.

The Swans were in grave danger of folding prior to the 2022 season because of a lack of playing numbers but managed to rustle up sufficient footballers at the eleventh hour to start the season.

Corryong has also struggled to put enough players on the field this season and only had 15 starters against Bullioh on Saturday, after forfeiting the reserves and under 14s.

Numbers across all three grades for both clubs have fluctuated during the season and players have had to double up from the reserves on several occasions.

Driver airlifted to hospital

A Corryong man injured in a single vehicle accident in the early hours of Saturday morning was fortunate that a passerby happened upon the scene and called emergency services.

The 27-year-old man lost control of his sedan on the Cudgewa Valley Road approximately 100 metres south of the intersection with the Murray Valley Highway at around 2.15am in the morning.

The vehicle rolled several times before coming to rest. It was noticed by another driver a short time later and Corryong police were notified.

They located the accident site at around 2.30am and the man was conveyed by ambulance to the Albury Base Hospital. He was later transferred by air to the Royal Melbourne Hospital for treatment for spinal and shoulder injuries and is now in a stable condition.

Learning centre opens its doors

Mark van Bergen and Sophie Greenhill at the new study space

A free learning hub for university and higher education students is open in Corryong to support locals who are studying remotely. Students enrolled in a degree at any Australian university or higher education provider can register via the Country Universities Centre (CUC) Ovens Murray website www.cucovensmurray.edu.au for free access to the learning and study space in Boundary Street, with wraparound support to help them succeed in their studies.

Registration provides access to high-speed internet, computers, printers and video conferencing facilities, as well as on-site learning support.

Sophie Greenhill has been appointed as the Education Co-ordinator for the Corryong site and she is there to support students currently studying or looking to kickstart their learning journey.

"Students have access to our dedicated learning and study spaces created to support local students to succeed in their studies," she said.

"As a registered student, you receive wraparound support from myself and academic support from Celeste Oliver, our Learning Skills Advisor.

"The other great thing about CUC is you will have access to reliable high-speed internet, dual screen computers and printing facilities with after-hours access so you can study when it suits you.

"This type of support in our local community will contribute to successful outcomes for local students and will build a sustainable local workforce for our community," Ms Greenhill said.

In Corryong, on average, 11 percent of 25-34-year-olds hold degrees, compared to the metropolitan average of 44 percent. The CUC is working to address the divide by providing quality access to higher education opportunities for regional people and communities.

"If qualified people remain in the region, it creates less need to attract people from outside the area, leading to a direct benefit on local businesses, education and health facilities," Ms Greenhill added.

One of the first students to register with the CUC in Corryong was Maddi Miller who is currently completing her Bachelor of Nursing through CSU Albury/Wodonga.

"During exam period I was able to use the centre for a quiet space to prepare for and complete my exams," she said.

"Having something like the CUC in Corryong very useful as a student because it gives me confidence to use a mixed mode of on-campus and online study knowing that I have the support when I am not on campus."

CUC Ovens Murray Centre Manager, Mark van Bergen, said the site in Corryong means that local students will be able to earn a degree without leaving home but still have access to campus-like facilities and academic support.

"Having a dedicated space to study with reliable internet and printers means you can get away from any distractions at home and really focus on your study," he explained.

"We have great people on site to support your learning and wellbeing, and you get to meet other students who are on the same journey as you, managing remote study.

"You can use it as little or as often as you like - whether you just pop in at exam times, use it for printing or when you've run out of internet data.

"Even students who are studying away can use the CUC when they're home visiting family and friends," Mr van Bergen added.

Registered students can access the CUC when it suits them, with secure swipe-card access from 7am to midnight, seven days a week. The CUC is currently located in the Corryong Innovation Space at 6 Boundary Street, Corryong.

Students can register and access these facilities for free by going to www.cucovensmurray.edu.au.

Clubs seek more advice on possible merger

The Swans faced further upheaval when they were forced to appoint a new coach in Ash Tyrell following the resignation of Matt Jones. After initial talks between the two clubs, the matter will now be taken back to the members for further discussions.

The sticking point in talks so far has been how best to cater for junior footballers and what an under age competition would look like.

This would involve discussions with other clubs and some direction from the league executive and possibly the involvement of AFL North East Border.

The record this season between the two Corryong-based clubs stands at one win apiece at senior level - which was against each other in rounds 2 and 8 - and their all-important clash next week will determine which of them makes up the numbers in the finals.

Here's cheers!

Cheryl Winter says running a good pub is all about cleanliness, friendliness and damn good food!

The central commercial district of Corryong has received a lift with the re-opening of the Courthouse Hotel last Thursday.

The doors of the popular watering hole in the main street had been closed for more than six months but regular patrons are now back enjoying a tipple.

New lessees, Cheryl Winter and Rod Chater, have been running the Victoria Hotel at Tallangatta for the past nine years and are now bringing their expertise to Corryong along with chef, Steve Bain.

The hotel has undergone a makeover and 'mine hosts' are inviting the community to drop in and say "G'day."

"We've had a few bumps along the way but we're now pleased to be able to offer the community another venue to get together," Chez said.

"Our mantra is 'Cleanliness, Friendliness and Damn Good Food'!"

"We will also be bringing live musical acts to town for people's entertainment."

Chef Steve will be offering a varied menu with the emphasis on fresh and healthy food and he will be sourcing local produce wherever possible.

There are also plans to revamp the pub's under utilised beer garden in time for the warmer weather.

It is expected that the hotel's TAB agency will also re-commence operations within the next few weeks.

The hotel is open seven days a week with meals currently available from Wednesday to Sunday.

"Once we have a full complement of trained staff we will be providing meals seven days a week," Chez said.

The pub also has a new phone number - for bookings and enquiries phone 02 6076 1868.

Land carers invited to apply for soil grants

Community groups in the North East with ideas to increase awareness and adoption of land management practices that improve and protect the region's soils have until August 1st to apply for two grants of up to $7,500 each to deliver their programs.

The North East Soil Health Community Grants are allocated through the Securing North East

Soils Through Knowledge Exchange project that supports community groups to undertake activities that increase awareness and adoption of land management practices to improve soil health.

The four-year project is supported by North East Catchment Management Authority (CMA), through funding from the Australian government.

North East CMA Project Officer, Sam Gitahi, said the nominated projects should promote community awareness as well as adoption of farm management practices that improve soil condition, focusing on reducing soil acidity and hillslope and gully erosion.

"Acid soils are a major cause of land degradation and threaten the productivity of agricultural soils in North East Victoria," Mr Gitahi said.

"Nearly half of the five million hectares of Victorian land affected by very acidic topsoil - which is indicated by low soil pH - are found in the north east region.

Community groups should apply on the North East CMA website at 2022-23 Soil Health Community Grants (necma.vic.gov.au).

Grant gives group a new identity

A local arts group has publicly thanked the Towong Shire Council for a $5,000 Bushfire Recovery Grant which has enabled it to re-brand and fit out its Corryong location.

The committee of Fine Artists of the Upper Murray Valleys Inc. decided to rename the group 'ARTUM' (Art of the Upper Murray) and has designed a new logo and created an online presence to reflect its new image.

The funds have also made it possible to purchase a new fridge, printer, cabinets and furniture for its home at Davis Cottage.

Two colourful banners were created to be used at the cottage when the group conducts classes and exhibitions (pictured).

The group has created an email address info@artum.org.au and a new website www.artum.org.au.

New members are most welcome - contact via email for further information or to obtain a membership form.

Seniors get to have their say

Senior Victorians are being invited to help shape government services, with the opening of Australia's largest research project of its kind examining their experiences.

Minister for Disability, Ageing and Carers, Colin Brooks, has launched the Ageing Well Survey alongside Commissioner for Senior Victorians, Gerard Mansour, who will oversee this important piece of community consultation.

This year's survey invites senior Victorians to have their say on a range of issues including wellbeing, ageism, digital inclusion, social connectedness, health and self-care.

Participants can also share their experience of the pandemic and the support they need to re-connect and participate in the community.

The findings of the survey will inform the commissioner's ongoing advocacy on behalf of older Victorians including advice to the Victorian government and the implementation of its recently launched Ageing Well Action Plan (2022-2026).

The survey builds on the findings of the 2020 report 'Ageing well in a changing world'.

The survey takes approximately 15 minutes to complete and closes on Sunday August 7th. Visit www.seniorsonline.vic.gov.au/survey.

Farmers want to halt riverside camping

The Victorian Farmers Federation (VFF) has written to the Victorian Minister for Environment and Climate Action, Lily D'Ambrosio, calling for an immediate suspension of the rules that allow camping on riverside farmland due to the biosecurity risks posed by both Lumpy Skin Disease (LSD) and Foot and Mouth Disease (FMD).

VFF President, Emma Germano, said both diseases pose a very real risk to the agriculture industry and the Victorian government must take swift action to prevent disaster.

"Control measures at our international borders do not go far enough and we need the government to step up and protect our livestock and farm businesses," Ms Germano said.

"Uncontrolled public access to farmland presents the most serious risk to farm biosecurity and we believe it's a no brainer to suspend the rules that allow camping on riverside farmland."

Farm campers could bring diseases

"We can't leave anything to chance when an incursion of FMD could cost our economy more than $80 billion, leave thousands of people without jobs and devastate our regions."

Ms Germano added the strict biosecurity measures in place at farms designed to keep out disease could be rendered useless if public access to farmland remained open.

"Farmers must have the ability to control and trace the movement of people on and off the property on which they have livestock," she explained.

"We can't do that if we don't know who's on our farms.

"Farmers carefully protect our biosecurity because it is fundamental to our ability to produce quality, nutritious and safe food for our community and to maintain market access around the globe."

"There's a huge hole in the biosecurity protocols when farmers are implementing foot and vehicle washing and keeping a log book of visitors and yet campers can enter without a registration system that was promised before this was implemented by the Minister," Ms Germano said.

Safety campaign targets farm families

The Victorian Farmers Federation (VFF) Making our Farms Safer Project (MOFS) is aiming to boost public awareness and highlight the on-farm risks for children through a new safety campaign.

VFF President, Emma Germano, said the launch of the campaign coincides with National Farm Safety Week 2022 and will see a dedicated safety guidebook launched for farming families.

"The Australian agriculture industry sadly represents the highest proportion of accidents causing death in any workplace, with children tragically making up one quarter of these numbers," she said.

"We need to do all we can as an industry to ensure no-one has to endure the heartbreak, pain, loss and emptiness that losing a child to a preventable on-farm accident results in.

The campaign is driven by findings of a 2021 coronial inquiry which revealed in the period from 1 January, 2016 to 21 December, 2021 seven Victorian children died using farm machinery.

Follow the Making Our Farm Families Safer campaign across all social media platforms or download a free copy of the guidebook at www.makingourfarmssafier.org.au.

Anglers can make a local difference

The Victorian Fisheries Authority (VFA) has confirmed details for four fishing and boating forums in July and August at Wodonga, Portland, Mitcham and Port Albert.

The free forums are an opportunity for recreational fishers and boaters to come together, learn more about what is being done to improve their much-loved pastimes and share ideas on what could make them even better.

VFA CEO, Travis Dowling, said forums at Albert Park, Ballarat, Torquay, Nagambie and St Leonards had been a great success in recent months and staff from Fisheries and Better Boating Victoria were looking forward to the next four.

"We are excited to continue these forums at local clubs, to catch up with fishers and boaters and discuss ways we can improve their experience on the water," Mr Dowling said.

"Our team has been busy delivering the Victorian government's $35 million Go Fishing Victoria plan which has removed commercial net fishing from Port Phillip Bay and the Gippsland Lakes, made launching a boat and parking your trailer free and stocked a record 10 million fish last season, more than any other state in Australia.

"We are also overseeing the biggest boat ramp construction program in the state's history and continuing to invest fishing licence fees into worthwhile projects.

"Each forum will feature hour-long presentations covering these topics and more including better access, ramp upgrades, fish cleaning tables, science and research, enforcement, education and more.

"With subject matter experts attending, participants will get answers to all those questions that are debated with mates while in the boat or by a river somewhere," he added. "These forums are a great opportunity to suggest a project that will make a difference to your local water."

The Wodonga forum will be held on Thursday 25 August at 7pm at The Quest conference room, 46 Reid Street.

If Corryong struggles to assemble a full side, Tumbarumba is likely to go on a scoring rampage to sew up top spot on the ladder.

Cudgewa will keep its slim hopes of the double chance alive with a win over Federal which has also scratched for playing numbers.

Bullioh has the bye.

Blues News

Football

Seniors:- We were in the game up until half time but Tumba were too good on the day. We had good four quarter efforts from Lachie Whiteley and Jack McInerney and looked good in patches but need to gel over the coming weeks to give it a real shake come finals.

Bullioh forward Kelvin Wallace stretches for the mark under pressure from Jeremiah Madden and Dylan Nowak.

U14s:- The boys fought it out to record their fifth win on the trot. With 6-7 players unavailable it was always going to be tough but the team held on strongly to beat Tumba by 17 points.

Luke Turnbull and Hunter Patane were a lethal combination out of the centre setting up numerous scoring opportunities throughout the game.

Teddy Byatt played a career best game at full forward, kicking two goals along with a few "don't argues" to inspire his team mates.

The Mulligan brothers were also dangerous in attack, combining for four goals with Beau having the bragging rights with three and Heath one.

Isaac Nicholas played well in defence spoiling Tumba's plans and controlling the backline.

It was a fantastic game to watch and a great all-round team performance. Well done guys!

U11s:- The team had a great win on the weekend. It was pleasing to see new players getting on board and strengthening an already great team. Tom Turnbull played an awesome game and was deserving of best on ground. Other bests were Declan Faithfull, Jodie Pierce, Kelly Pierce and Lennie Jarvis.

Netball D Grade:- It was a tough match against a very united Tumbarumba team. The girls gave it their all and had some really good moments of play and a couple of small mistakes on the way mainly due to the consistent defence of the opposition.

Special mention to Jasmine Cane and Chloe Land for their defence in the circle. All in all it was a good effort by everyone including three girls from under 15s playing in this seniors side. Well done girls!

Under 15s:- The team played a good game against Tumbarumba. It was quite a tough match up and the girls really stood up and fought their way through it. Unfortunately, they didn't take out the win this time around but they all played with great attitudes and never gave up. Great work girls.

Roos roar back into form

Following a surprise loss to Bullioh in round 9 and a two-week break for byes, Tumbarumba reasserted its claim to flag favouritism with a comprehensive 72-point away win over Cudgewa on Saturday.

It was difficult to measure the loss as the Blues had several top flight players unavailable because of illness and health and safety protocols but on the other side of the coin, the Roos had both of their spearheads absent in Tyler Lampe and Daniel Hitchens, who are sitting second and third on the Corryong Courier goalkicking list with a combined tally of 63 majors.

Tumba played steady football in the first half while keeping the clamps on their opposition but the Roos kicked away after the long break with Jake Read and Connor Clayton doing most of the damage with seven goals between them.

Ben Hall was prominent for the Blues with three majors while the league's leading scorer, Nick Brockley, was required further afield for the second week running.

The defeat allowed Bullioh to shore up second place on the ladder by putting a two game gap on the Blues while also clawing back a chunk of percentage with 71-point victory over Corryong.

Shane Price continued his sharpshooting form in front of the sticks with six goals for the Dogs for the second week in a row and Mackinlay Haley O'Neill chimed in with five majors.

With both sides missing some key personnel, defence went out the window as the Dogs banged on 25 goals but despite being outplayed on every line, the Demons still managed to boot their largest score of the season.

Liam Potter and Jordan Palmer were most effective for the Dees by kicking five and four goals respectively even though the team only mustered 15 bodies for the match after forfeiting the reserves.

MULTIMIN EVOLUTION

MULTIMIN EVOLUTION is an optimised, trace mineral injection that gets modern cattle 'performance ready' by improving immunity and fertility.

The enhanced levels of zinc in MULTIMIN EVOLUTION are required to boost the immunity and fertility of modern cattle. Zinc is one of the most abundant trace minerals in the body of cattle and large amounts of zinc are used to ensure an adequate immune response and optimal fertility.
