Corryong CFA volunteers will be tin rattling again in Corryong tomorrow.

The CFA is asking the community to once again support members rattling tins across the state tomorrow for the Good Friday Appeal. Local CFA brigades have carved out a wonderful annual tradition, having raised more than $37 million for the Royal Children's Hospital since 1951 and Corryong members will be out and about tomorrow.

CFA Chief Officer, Jason Heffernan, said thousands of CFA members on fire trucks and standing at traffic lights rattling tins in their firefighting gear was one of the things that defines the Good Friday Appeal.

"CFA's long-standing partnership with the Appeal is not possible without our volunteers who give up time every year to fundraise to help the kids," he said.

CFA brigades will also be fundraising online for those who don't get a chance to donate in person at www.goodfridayappeal.com.au or call 1300 APPEAL between 9am and 11pm.

Wild dog program could close

The possible abolition of the current Wild Dog Control Program in Victoria could have dire consequences for livestock producers.

The current program, which includes the 3km Livestock Protection Buffer (LPB) zone, expires on October 1st, 2024 with no guarantee of renewal.

The program is governed by an Order in Council, a set structure of legislated guidelines that allow Department of Energy, Environment and Climate Action (DEECA) officers to humanely control wild dog populations within the LPB zone.

"The order was renewed last year for only 12 months, during which time farmers and other stakeholders were promised consultation and a count of the wild dog population across Victoria," said Libbe Paton, North East Wild Dog Action Group.

"Neither of these promises have been upheld to date.

"Naturally, we are very concerned and fear the lack of support from our state government will see the program closed, possibly overnight and before the deadline, as happened in north west Victoria on March 15th.

"This snap decision now protects dingoes on both public and private land, leaving sheep and cattle producers unable to protect their own livestock and being promised only $550,000 for the whole region to 'invest' in non-lethal methods of protection such as exclusion fencing and guard animals.

"Apart from the fact that this is a fraction of the money necessary, we know from experience these methods do not work.

"The program is under threat from dingo conservation groups which are making many claims that are incorrect including that the dingo is not a separate species but an ancient breed of domestic dog.

Art trio showcase our natural beauty

Artwork born from the ashes of the 2019-20 Black Summer bushfires will be on public display in Corryong during the upcoming bush festival.

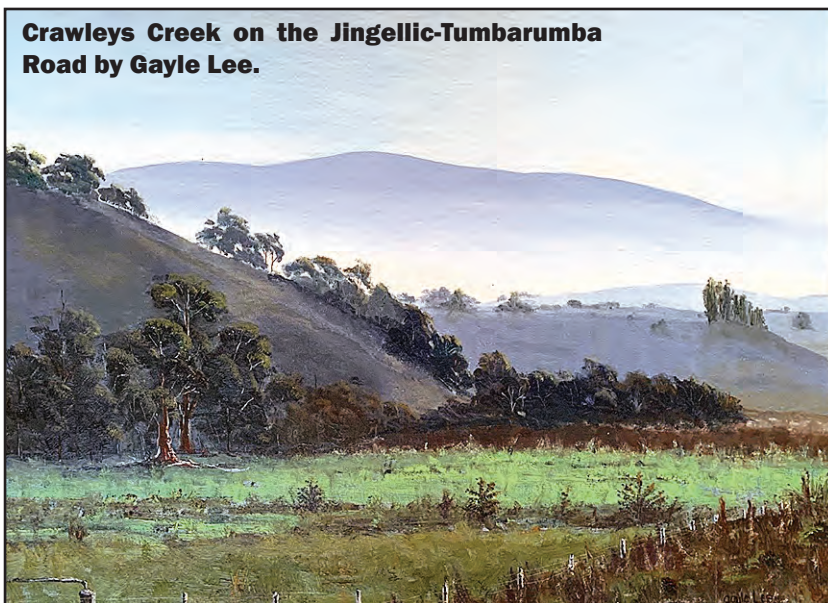

The exhibition - 'Land and Life' - will be held at Davis Cottage from April 8th -14th of April. It will be an engaging and vibrant show hosted by the local Walwa art group 'Bridge the River Arts' and will feature work by three local artists - Gayle Lee, Gillian Fahle and Ronda Teakel.

All three artists live and work on their cattle farms, which were severely affected by the bushfires. After the disaster the trio met and started painting regularly together and realised they all shared a common love and interest of the land and everything to do with landscapes and nature.

The artists want to showcase a different interest within the Towong Shire, while also portraying the pure joy and beauty of the land on which they live.

Gayle, a landscape artist, has lived her adult life in the Victorian high country and draws her inspiration from the beauty, atmosphere, form and colours of its mountains, trees and rivers. She aims to create landscapes that entice thoughts and emotions in the viewer, inspiring them to want to take a wander through her landscape and into her world of art.

As a young woman, Gillian went to an art academy in Italy then worked in an art studio in Milan, specialising in restoration and colour selection for silk screen reproduction of contemporary paintings.

This experience influenced her personal work with colour and perspective being paramount in her art works.

Gillian returned to farming in Australia 16 years later and she is an avid observer of nature, birds, animals portraying them brilliantly in her acrylic, water colour and most recently her oil pieces. Ronda has been associated with the Upper Murray for many years and has been a permanent resident since 2019.

She is considered by Gayle and Gillian as the queen of "rock and grasses" with her ability to focus on the intricacies of the vegetation and monumental rock formations that are abundant in the high country.

Ronda finds the forest floors are a haven for fallen, leaves, twigs and drying grasses that provide intricate worlds of complex patterns and symphonies of colour that are often the foundation of her practice.

Gayle, Gillian and Ronda are three very different types of landscape artists who all share the common love of the land and life.

Bridge the River Arts has thanked Towong Shire Council and Joe Calvert (Co-ordinator for Recreation, Arts and Culture) for the support they have provided with access to bushfire recovery funding, enabling it to host the exhibition at Davis Cottage.

Park awards come home

The Rapley family which operated the Colac Colac ("Clack Clack") Caravan Park from March, 2002 to December 2010 has decided to return the awards they won to the Towong Shire and the people of Corryong who supported them during that period.

"The awards were the result of the contribution of all the entertainers, musicians, poets and professional singers which made 'Clack Clack' a place of nostalgia, joy and happiness," said family matriarch Lorna.

"It was the highlight of our family team's life and in returning these awards to the rightful owner is a gesture of gratitude, thankfulness and love for the experiences we shared together.

"On behalf of Kingsley, Brenda, Daniel Kyle, Brent and Angela we thank everyone with much love.

"We could never forget the wonderful Corryong people as without their support we would not have won these awards.

"The memories will stay with us forever."

Current lessees, Melissa and Paul Dally, have continued the legacy established by the Rapley family, receiving a Community Development award for hosting an annual community concert and an Innovation Award for introducing new activities including movie nights, arts and craft programs and yoga sessions at peak holiday times.

Corryong CBD Update

Over the last fortnight we successfully completed the installation of a new water main on the Northern side of the CBD, down to the Post Office, and the worksite was demobilised and tidied to prepare for Easter and The Man from Snowy River Bush Festival.

While construction pauses, negotiations are currently ongoing to provide more access for streetscape works to continue after the festival, with plans to commence demolition of the footpath from the Memorial Hall to the Man from Snowy River Arcade.

Recent underground surveys identified six underground fuel tanks across four locations. Two tanks have been exposed during Stage 2 works and additional tanks reported by the community are also being investigated. This has prompted us to take proactive measures to prioritise environmental and public safety including decommissioning which involves decanting the remaining fuel, filling tanks with stabilised sand, and managing soil contamination. The underground fuel tanks are a legacy from old businesses that operated out of the existing buildings in the CBD area. Planning is still underway and we are arranging the excavation of sample pits to uncover tanks outside the Stage 2 construction area. Soil sampling, testing, and removal of the fuel from these tanks are being planned to commence immediately after the festival.

"The dingo is listed as canis familiaris (domestic dog) by scientific bodies such as the Australian Faunal Directory," Ms Paton said.

"It should not be listed as an Australian native species as there is clear evidence it was brought here from Asia.

"Earliest fossil remains are dated to about 3500 years ago. It contributed to the destruction of the alpha predator at the time, the thylacine and many native species since.

"Nor is there any evidence to support the theory that dingoes keep foxes and cats under control, as claimed by dingo conservationists," she added.

"In Victoria, the dingo was listed as a threatened, protected species around 2012 under pressure from dingo conservationists. A recent study, claims that 87 per cent of all wild dogs in Victoria are pure bred dingo compared with previous data showing one to three per cent were pure dingo. This study was based on only 62 dog samples of dubious origin in Victoria and was funded by the Dingo Conservation Foundation.

Claims that most wild dogs are pure bred dingoes are being disputed.

"This formed the basis for the Victorian government's new policy of dingo protection."

The North East Wild Dog Action Group, a committee of proactive livestock producers, has been attempting to contact the Minister for Agriculture Ros Spence and Minister for Environment and Outdoor Recreation Steve Dimopoulos, inviting them to visit the region. Minister Dimopoulos has not replied and Minister Spence cancelled her one-day visit at short notice and has not confirmed an offer to reschedule.

"We strongly encourage Minister Spence and Minister Dimopoulos to speak directly with the farmers who will bear the full impacts, both financially and mentally, if the current Wild Dog Control Program ceases," Ms Paton said.

"We request that any data on wild dog populations in the Victorian high country and surrounding areas that has been collected since the order was created, be brought forward and palced on the table for discussion.

"We also highlight the very high environmental and biosecurity risks associated with the closure of the program and wild dogs becoming 'protected'.

"We also recognise the flow-on effects to businesses, the wider industries and those who value by-products from our sheep industry. Hydatids and neosporosis should not be overlooked in the management of our sheep industry.

"In 2020-21, Victoria accounted for 47 per cent of Australia's sheep meat production, making it the country's largest sheep meat producer. The state's sheep meat export was valued at $1.9 billion - representing 43 per cent of all meat exports - making it Australia's highest sheep meat exporter.

"The United States is Victoria's highest-value market for sheep meat export (valued at $598 million), followed by China ($206 million) and Malaysia ($165 million).

"We are asking all livestock producers, landholders and communities that hold the same opinions and fears as our group, to write to both ministers and encourage your networks to do the same.

"If you need support with your submissions contact us via email and we can assist you. We are also running a petition which can be accessed via email."

Contact the group at northeast.wilddogs@gmail.com.

They will also be on site at the Tallangatta Expo on Thursday April 18th to discuss the implications of the wild dog program being abolished. The petition will also be available for signature.

Landcare grants have opened

The Victorian government has announced the opening of the 2024 Victorian Landcare Grants, with $3.55 million available to environmental volunteer groups and networks.

Project grants of up to $20,000 are available

Church reaches milestone

A decade ago the future of the Holy Trinity Anglican Church in Cudgewa looked bleak.

The floor was riddled with white ants and the inside was in great need of patching and painting.

Much discussion was held on whether it would remain open considering the nature of the repairs needed and dwindling church attendance.

However, a committed group of parishioners felt strongly that it was worth saving and went to work, asking for donations of money and manpower to put towards the repairs which eventuated in 2019.

As a result, Holy Trinity will be celebrating its centenary in July 2024.

The church's Foundation Stone reads "To the Glory of God this stone was laid by Mrs Wm Blair 16th July 1924."

A commemorative church service will be held on Sunday July 14th followed by a luncheon.

Families and community members who have been associated with the church throughout its history are invited join in the celebrations.

Council considers land use changes

Towong Shire Council has begun engaging with its communities in Corryong, Tallangatta and Bellbridge to discuss potential changes to land use planning.

"We were excited to see such strong attendance at each session, where we delved into topics like where homes should be located, how roads should be laid out and where parks and businesses might fit in," said Towong mayor, Cr Andrew Whitehead.

"With the help of Tomkinson - an expert strategic planning firm from Wangaratta - and our dedicated Planning Team, we had meaningful conversations aimed at gathering each communities' thoughts and ideas.

"We will use this input to develop some draft plans which the community will be able to provide feedback on in the coming months.

"Community input is incredibly valuable as we work to develop plans that reflect the desires of each town."

In other council news, the next stage of the Corryong Circuit Trail project is now underway.

Stage 2 involves the construction of a path from the Corryong lawn cemetery down to Cemetery Creek and along the creek to Wheeler Street, connecting with the path completed in Stage 1.

It is estimated that Stage 2 will be complete by the end of April.

Once finished, the Corryong Circuit Trail will offer a shared walking and cycling experience linking various points of cultural, natural, and historical significance. The 4.2km loop around the township is expected to provide valuable recreation opportunities for the community.

Funding for the project comes from the Victorian government's Regional Infrastructure Fund and the Australian government's Local Roads and Community Infrastructure Program.

The consultation period for the new playground design in Walwa has now wrapped up.

"A big thank you to our youngest community members who put their artistic talents on show and to those who responded to our survey," Cr Whitehead said.

"Some of the favourite pieces of equipment we heard about and saw during the consultation phase were a spiral slide, a flying fox and a climbing tower

"We will use this feedback to help guide the final design of the playground on Main Street.

"The design will be available to view in the coming months."

Free booster time extended

Imagine the stress of being unsure you will have a mobile phone service in your home in times of emergency or accidents or when you want to speak to loved ones.

Many people living in the Towong, Alpine and Indigo Shires are unsure they will have a mobile phone service in their home in times of emergency or accidents or when they want to speak to loved ones.

A program that provides free mobile phone boosters has been extended until March 2025, giving up to 800 households the opportunity to improve mobile phone reception in their homes.

Dan Fewster, Technology Manager with Community Business Connect (CBC), said a pilot project in the Nariel Valley in 2021 had produced good results for many people who had been dealing with the daily frustration of not having mobile reception at home. "Community Business Connect, a social enterprise created by AgBiz Assist, based in north east Victoria was established with the express purpose of helping regional communities navigate technology challenges for social and business benefit," he said.

"So, this project is a perfect fit and results from the pilot project showed us just how much good mobile phone reception can affect people's lives," Mr Fewster said.

The program also includes an educational component, conducted over the phone, which provides information about the use of the booster and how to best maximise the benefit. It also guides users on their communications options in the event of an emergency.

Have you considered tax planning in your farming business?

Never before have Australian farmers and businesses had so much deferred tax on their books for unsold produce, deferred income, accelerated expenses eg. Instant Asset Write-Off, farm management deposits, or unrealistic capital gains.

Of the two major tax planning strategies, tax saving and tax deferral, genuine tax saving is increasingly more difficult to access.

Working with an experienced farm tax advisor who is forward planning and knows about complex farm and agricultural taxes is critical to keeping more cash in your pocket.

Our experienced advisors at RSM in Albury can guide you through:

- * How to minimise your tax
- * Succession planning
- * Most tax-effective structures for asset protection and tax minimisation
- * Preparation of financial statements, tax returns and activity statements
- * Complex tax related issues

Other specific considerations important to make within your farming business before 30 June 2024 are:

Significant changes to Instant Asset Write-Offs

From 2020 to 2023, most small businesses could claim all future depreciation on existing assets owned and purchased, the ultimate sugar hit of tax deductions. This was not just a gift from the government, it was always an entitlement, however you received them early to assist through the COVID-19 pandemic.

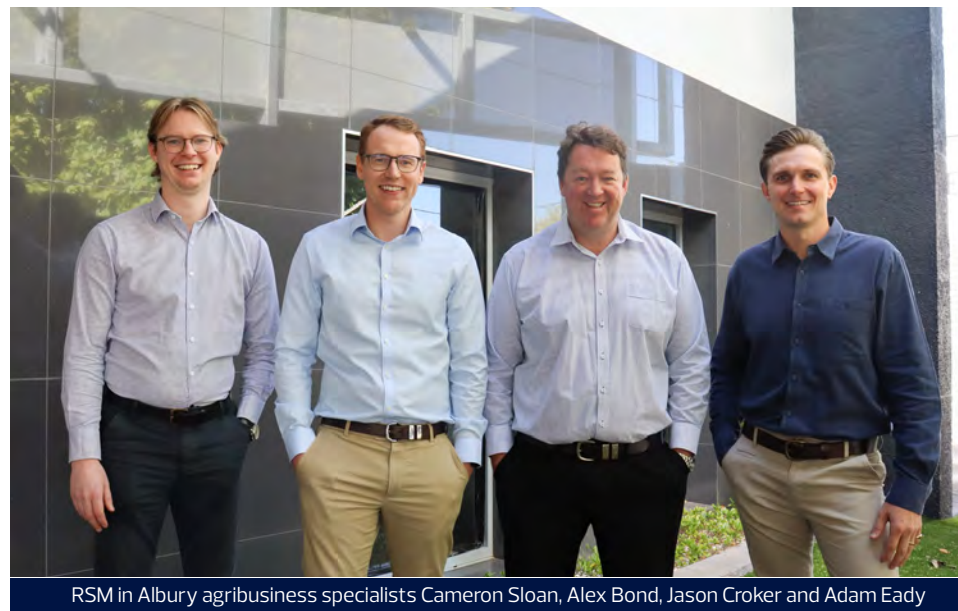

The new changes to the Instant Asset Write-Off will impact farm businesses this financial year. Small businesses with less than $10 million turnover will receive an instant asset write-off for each eligible asset costing less than $20,000. This write-off is installed and ready for use between 1 July 2023 and 30 June 2024.

So, now all available depreciation has already been claimed, the tax values of all owned business assets are nil. Proceeds from the sale of any of these could now be 100 per cent taxable income.

Farm Management Deposits

The maximum amount of all farm management deposits that can be held by an individual is $800,000, with a minimum amount remaining at $1,000. Our advisors can discuss the options available, including depositing funds to reduce taxable income or planning to withdraw these funds in a tax effective manner.

Tax planning moving forward needs to be different. We are looking two to three years in advance to understand the cash flow impact of what's ahead. The catch-up effect of PAYG instalments will be significant and tolerance levels towards tax will need to be reset. There are actions and strategies to consider and implement, and it will not be business as usual.

Upper Murray Sport

Local players hit the road

While the start of the Upper Murray season is still a month away, several promising local netballers honed their skills at the Albury tournament on the weekend.

Ella Grzeschka was a member of the winning Wodonga Representative Under 15 Champs team (pictured) which won five of its six games, finishing top of the ladder before finals.

It was the first time this team had played together and under the guidance of Sally Anthony and although minor mistakes were evident during the early rounds they were addressed by the coach, who was also able to substitute players during the flow of play to help match up players.

Wodonga Maroon knocked out Myrtleford convincingly in the first final and had to wait as the other finals match went into double overtime.

The team subsequently won the grand final over Wangaratta Aqua, with Arhi Cohen being awarded best on court for the grand final, after playing a standout game.

Lilly McKimmie played in the Ovens & Murray Under 17s team which also won its division. Other players representing the Upper Murray were Lexi Galbraith (U17s), Quinn Galbraith and Cecilia Paton (U15s) and Billie Galbraith (U13s).

Among the coaching ranks were Narelle McKimmie (U17s) and Cassie Heaphy (U15s), with the players donning Federal uniforms and playing their hearts out.

TEE TO GREEN

Corryong

The winner of the Monthly Medal on Sunday was Shane Bannon (nett 74) from Justin Knott (76) and Richard Bennetts and Mark Collins (77).

Coming up

Sunday March 31 (8.30am): Corryong Grande 3-Person Ambrose.

The course will be closed from Monday April 1st to allow for installation of security fencing around the greens for the bush festival. A re-opening date will be advised later - watch the club Facebook page.

Welaregang

A big field of 13 players hit the fairways

last Saturday for the second last round of the Summer Cup 9@9 competition.

On a perfect day for golf, Lance Noonan carded 20 points to win from Tony Jarvis on 19, one ahead of competition leader Paul Land. Paul has been on top of the points ladder since round 2 and had this competition wrapped up since about the halfway mark.

After the presentations, the club's annual general meeting was held with another good turn out. All office bearers were re-elected with the club looking forward to another great year.

The Opening Day 3-person ambrose is on Sunday 7th April - teams in by 9.30am for a 10am tee-off followed by afternoon tea. Members are encouraged to bring a guest (or two) and visiting players are most welcome for a fun day of golf (no GA handicap required).

For information about upcoming events at the club or if you would like a copy of the season's program contact Lance Noonan on 0419 927 470.
