Sandra Hamilton and Raewyn Milbank were among more than 40 people who enjoyed the Melbourne Cup luncheon at the Corryong Sporting Complex on Tuesday.

Spotlight put on election vows

Member for Indi, Helen Haines, is asking the Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) to investigate election commitments made by the Labor Party in 2022, amounting to $1.35 billion through two invitation-only grant funds.

Dr Haines said that during the last election campaign, the Australian Labor Party made 435 commitments to fund projects, with 86.8 percent of seats that Labor won or held at the election receiving a grant through the programs.

"Only 51.7 per cent of non-Labor seats received a grant," Dr Haines noted.

"Once Labor formed government, it directed the Department of Infrastructure, Transport, Regional Development, Communications and the Arts to set up two grant programs - Investing in Our Communities

Program and the Priority Community Infrastructure Program, allocating almost $1.35 billion to these programs in their October 2022 budget.

"Freedom of Information requests show the relevant minister asked the department to undertake a desktop review for project merits after coming to government, long after the spending commitments were made."

Dr Haines pointed to the program guidelines as a point of concern, noting they were 'one-off, closed, non-competitive programs', with the eligibility restricted to those 'invited to deliver a project identified by the Australian government'.

"The government had an 'invite-only' list of organisations that could apply through these two programs, mostly projects that were already promised by Labor as election commitments," she said.

"When you put all of the information together - who received a grant, the application process and the assessment process - we have to ask, does the process for determining recipients under these programs seem rigorous, objective, fair, equitable and responsible? Or is this just another example of pork barrelling?"

Dr Haines said she had met with the Minister for Infrastructure, Transport, Regional Development and Local Government, Catherine King, to lay out her concerns in a meeting in October, advising the minister she would be making a referral to the audit office.

"The ANAO is the auditor for public spending - it makes sure that when the government spends taxpayer money, it stacks up. I want to know if these election commitment programs do indeed stack up."

Dr Haines said that any assertion by the government that "the election is the selection" goes to the heart of the problem of pork barrelling and called on the Parliament to take firm action to end the practice.

"The spending of taxpayer money should always be done fairly and transparently, with proper guidelines and selection criteria and awarded to recipients who objectively demonstrate merit."

According to the Australia Institute, more than 80 per cent of Australians view pork barrelling as a form of corruption.

"This is a flaw of Australian democracy and needs to change," Dr Haines said.

Lots of stalls, music, food & a great atmosphere!

All your favourite stallholders will be there so come along and enjoy everything the market has to offer!

New pathway leads to success

Three Corryong College students have been successful in taking a non-traditional route to tertiary education.

Year 12 students Shei McLean, Brooke Tregilgas, and Ruby Scammell have been accepted into their first-choice programs at Charles Sturt University's Albury Campus through the VCE Vocational Major (VCE VM) which offers an alternative senior secondary pathway, equivalent to the VCE unscored.

Ruby will pursue a Bachelor of Education - Early Childhood/Primary; Brooke has been accepted into a Bachelor of Education - Primary; and Shei will begin a Bachelor of Nursing.

The program also provides students with the opportunity to undertake employment or further training.

Lachlan Nugent has earned an apprenticeship as a Service Technician with Hutchinson Pearce in Albury, while Jess Damm has secured a traineeship with Snowy Hydro at Khancoban, working towards a Certificate III and IV in Business, with potential to train as an Administration Assistant in 2026.

The flexibility of the VCE VM meets the needs, interests and abilities of students, helping them achieve their goals and secure successful futures.

Shei McLean, Brooke Tregilgas and Ruby Scammell will undertake tertiary courses next year.

Learning hub paves the way

Corryong's Country Universities Centre (CUC) has had a very successful year with an increase in usage and 46 students are currently registered.

Locals are studying at university, TAFE, professional organisations and undertaking VCE.

Education co-ordinator Vicki Kane and learning skills advisor Celeste Oliver support students with planning assignments, time management, providing encouragement and any support that is needed to be successful in their chosen study.

"Our students have used our centre in Boundary Road more than 1000 times this year, showing that it makes a difference to their study," Vicki said.

"We would like to thank Towong Shire for providing and maintaining the buildings and we recently received some plants that have brightened up our space.

"Snowy Hydro is also a major supporter of the CUC in Corryong and recently updated the chairs to ergonomically friendly ones and have provided sit-stand desks for students to use."

The Corryong Country Universities Centre is working to improve accessibility to higher education in the community.

"If you are living in

the Upper Murray or even a regular visitor, we will support you by providing a free, quiet study space with excellent internet, printing, computers and face to face study support," Vicki said.

"Now is the time to think about registering to study next year."

The centre can be accessed by students from 5am to midnight, seven days a week and is open to visitors on weekdays (except Tuesday) from 9.00am to 3:30pm.

"Pop in and see if we can help you find the course to suit you," Vicki added.

Letters to the Editor:-

To our fantastic community.....

Hi everyone, hope your day is great.

Did you know the Corryong & District Memorial Hall facility boasts the largest stage equipped with lighting, sound and audio visual equipment, outside Albury Wodonga?

Did you know the RSL no longer leases the RSL Hall from the Memorial Hall?

However, it has granted free use of the facility and proudly supports the extensive memorabilia display.

Did you know RSL hall has a wonderful Dance studio capable of wedding and birthday occasions along with magnificent new kitchen?

Did you know the combined RSL/Memorial Hall usage stands at 70 per cent since 2023-2024?

Did you know with all input expenditure inflating operation costs this committee has been successful in maintaining reasonably low hire charges to community groups? We do understand the pressure on community groups as volunteers, together with financial and time commitment of members!

Did you know the hall supports the RSL, Debutante Ball, Corryong

College, Man from Snowy River Bush Festival, Corryong Health, Upper Murray Dance, Upper Murray Performing Arts (UMPA), several government agencies, many local community groups and sporting organisations including basketball, badminton, indoor bowls table tennis, indoor netball and and most recently, pickle ball? There is also an opportunity for people to play snooker on the full size table in the RSL Hall

Did you know to stage a performance, bringing big name performers, a band and required specialist sound and lighting to town costs $12,000 plus? We do try to keep ticket prices as cheap as possible often suffering a loss on the night. The community has a right to expect entertainment but also must contribute.

Did you know the Memorial Hall is affiliated with UMPA in supporting efforts to bring a range of entertainment to the district?

Did you know the hall committee proudly supports Café Corryong Brew, which breathes life into your community meeting place and contributes financially to hall coffers allowing further improvements to the facility and increase in community enjoyment?

Did you know in 2007 previous long-serving committee members publicly announced the impending closure of the hall if a new committee was not formed immediately?

Did you know the present committee was formed in 2007 in an effort to keep the hall open for this community?

Committee members - then much more youthful, working with children at school involved in sporting and other activities - realised the importance of the facility to the Upper Murray.

Maybe you believe the hall plays an important role in community cohesion, social welfare, health and happiness? If yes, maybe consider a position on the committee? You will be most welcome and your voice and opinion will certainly be heard and respected. You will be contributing to the social fabric of the Upper Murray.

See you at the annual general meeting on Tuesday November 12th at Café Corryong Brew at 7pm (light supper provided).

Sheril Wilson, Corryong Memorial Hall Committee.

Probus takes a beach break

Members of the Corryong Probus club recently enjoyed a few days in Merimbula on the South Coast enjoying lots of fun, laughter and fellowship - which is what Probus is all about!

The group also paid a visit to the Bega Cheese Factory followed by some 'retail therapy'. Lunch at Wheelers Seafood Restaurant was also very much enjoyed by all.

After such indulgence they went on a scenic tour of Eden where a few went for a paddle in the sea. A must was a visit to Oatlands Nursery - the plants and gifts made it a difficult decision to

The tourist association is installing other murals in the district.

Tourism group has more irons in the fire

At the 2024 annual general meeting of the Man from Snowy River Tourism Association (MFSRTA), president Ros McKenzie presented her report of its activities over the past 12 months.

I would like to thank all our committee members for their support and input into the ongoing projects of the association. Thank you also to my secretary, Cathy Ross for all her hard work and support over the last 12 months and to Dianne Humphrey for her work as treasurer keeping the books in order.

Our projects are funded from profits from the sale of souvenir items at the Corryong Visitor Information Centre and in the last few years we have also been successful with funding from a number of grants.

Ongoing projects of the association are:-

- Honour Avenue Carvings - this project has been funded from a grant from the Department of Veterans' Affairs. A sub-committee has been formed comprising members of the MFSRTA committee, representatives of the Corryong Memorial Hall, RSL and Upper Murray Historical Society and community members.

Stephen Learmonth, local war historian, is playing a major role in researching and sharing his knowledge relating to the Corryong Avenue of Honour. More than 120 names of those honoured by the original avenue have been found and recorded and photos of 41 of these servicemen have been found.

John Brady, woodcarver, has used these 41 photos to create eight images of typical servicemen from the Upper Murray which are designed to honour all WW1 servicemen. The sub-committee is now seeking final quotes on a memorial plaque (to list all 120+ servicemen), a granite seat, signage and landscaping of the site where the carvings will be situated. We hope to have this project completed by April 2025.

- Pioneer Corner Mural: Grant funding has been set aside for this project. Permission has been obtained to create a mural on the Donaldson Street wall of the Top of the Town Takeaway which will reflect the early pioneering history of Corryong.

- The Beautiful Upper Murray Map: The first edition of this map was produced in 2014. Work has started to identify errors, corrections and any changes needed. A number of these are needed due to the effects of the 2019/20 bushfires. We still have sufficient of the current edition for sale, however it will be great to have a newer edition available.

- Corryong Circuit Trail Signage: Now that the trail is complete (Towong Shire project) we have started work on the signage. The weather-resistant horse stands (produced for the MFSR Festival Art Show in about 2014) will be used as the base for the signs. Thirteen of these will be placed along the trail to give both direction signage and also information about the pioneers of Corryong. The pioneers highlighted by these signs will be related to the street names of Corryong. We are working with Towong Shire and the Upper Murray Historical Society on this project.

Congratulations to John Murphy for his tireless work towards the Corryong Wetlands project. The association plans to support the project with signage. Being along the Corryong Circuit Trail, there is an opportunity to design the wetlands signage to fit with that style.

We have supported the Playles Hill Park project in numerous ways. This includes replacement seating at the rotunda and the gabion basket seats which can be seen at the rotunda and labyrinth. We provided funding for the drinking fountain at the rotunda. Most recently we donated one of the horse stands for signage at the newly completed labyrinth. We congratulate the Playles Hill Project Group on their work to help develop this park into a major attraction for both locals and visitors.

Our website uppermurraytourism.com.au details a number of our past projects such as Kat Brown's 'A View Through the Valley' artwork at Playles Hill and statues of Horrie the Wog Dog and Jack Riley in Corryong.

We also support other Towong Shire projects such as the High Country Rail Trail, Great River Road and the new Upper Murray website.

Towong Shire has not yet been successful in its applications for various grants for development of the High Country Rail Trail. We are hopeful that this will be funded in the near future as we believe that its development will have a significant impact on tourism.

Parklands Albury Wodonga secured funding to complete the bridge across Tallangatta Creek and also to produce and install a mural on the trail at Cudgewa.

The Great River Road project has seen the completion of walking / cycling tracks at Towong, Tintalra, Walwa and Walwa to Jingellic Bridge and the installations and signage at the Pine Mountain wayside stop.

We look forward to seeing the installation of the brolgas artwork at Towong. We also look forward to seeing the production of new publicity / marketing material on the Great River Road.

It is great that the new Visit Upper Murray website is now up and running. We look forward to this becoming an even better resource as further information is added in the near future. We encourage all Upper Murray businesses to have a presence on the site.

We have supported the Chauvel Border Light Horse Trail with a contribution towards the cost of production of brochures.

We have also worked with Towong Shire and Upper Murray Inc (UMI) on the annual Business and Tourism Expo, UMI Tourism Innovation Working Group and UMI Tourism Entrepreneurial Discovery Workshops.

Now that we are past the stresses of the pandemic and the 2019/20 bushfires I hope that we can get back to business as usual.

It will be great to see our ongoing projects progress towards completion in 2025.

Our committee meets once a month and we are seeking interested members of the community to join us and help to support tourism in the Upper Murray. If you are interested in joining the team please contact myself, Cathy Ross or Dianne Humphrey at the Visitor Information Centre or email info@uppermurraytourism.com.au.

Program delivers boost to fish stocks

Thousands of native sportfish will be released into waterways across NSW over coming months through the popular Two-Dollar-for-One-Dollar Native Fish Stocking program.

NSW Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development (DPIRD) Acting Executive Director Fisheries, Peter Turnell, said $500,000 in funds from the Recreational Fishing Trust has been allocated to the community-based program for the 2024-25 season including stocking local waters.

"Funds are available on a two-dollar for one-dollar basis, where applicants will receive two dollars for every one dollar they spend on stocking high priority native sportfish, including Australian Bass, Golden Perch and Murray Cod," Mr Turnell said.

"Fish are supplied to local groups by the NSW commercial fish hatchery sector, which complies with strict measures to ensure the highest quality production, fish health and genetic standards.

"Approximately 75 groups, including fishing clubs, local councils and other community organisations, participate in the program each year. Collectively, these groups have released more than 15 million native fish into waterways across NSW since the program commenced in the late 1990s."

The Khancoban Angling Club has received $7,000 for stocking the Tooma River, Murray River and Tumbarumba Creek with cod.

Mr Turnell said the community stocking program has been operating for 26 years and is a great example of how fishing licences fees are invested back into recreational fishing in NSW through the Recreational Fishing Trust.

"The Two-Dollar-for-One-Dollar Native Fish Stocking program plays an important role in boosting recreational fishing opportunities in NSW, as well as increasing community involvement in, and awareness of, responsible stocking," Mr Turnell said.

"During the 2023-24 season, more than 825,000 native fish were stocked through the program.

"This includes the release of 18,000 Australian Bass into Clarrie Hall Dam (near Uki), nearly 25,000 Golden Perch into Edward River (near Deniliquin) and 16,000 Murray Cod into the Macquarie River (near Narromine).

The Murray and Murrumbidgee rivers will be re-stocked in several locations.

"In addition to boosting our recreational fisheries, native fish stocking also provides environmental, social, cultural and economic benefits across the state," Mr Turnell said.

Fish stocking involves producing fish fry or fingerlings and releasing them into dams or river systems. All fish stocking in NSW is carefully managed for sustainability.

Sport upgrade grants on offer

The Victorian government is ramping up its investment in regional communities looking to upgrade or build new local swimming pools, women and girls' change rooms, courts, sports fields and pavilions.

Member for Northern Victoria, Jaclyn Symes, announced that applications are now open for Round 2 of the Regional Community Sports Infrastructure Fund (RCSIF) to help regional communities plan, design and build the sport facilities they need.

The five funding streams in the Regional Community Sports Infrastructure Fund will help regional communities plan and build everything from indoor stadiums and aquatic facilities, upgrades for women and girls, community facilities, and infrastructure and planning to encourage people from all abilities to get involved. Additional grants of up to $50,000 are also available through the Regional Community Sports Infrastructure Fund to help boost participation for people with disability at the new or upgraded facilities. Applications are open until 17 March 2025. Former workers take a look at the future

They came together from all corners of the world to build the iconic Snowy Scheme and decades later, a visit to the Snowy 2.0 project has provided former workers with an eye-opening snapshot of Australia's renewable energy future.

About 60 members of the Snowy Scheme workforce continued 75th anniversary celebrations with a recent tour of the main Snowy 2.0 construction worksite at Lobs Hole and lunch with current workers.

Snowy Hydro's 2,200 megawatt pumped hydro mega project, which is expanding the scheme's generating capacity by more than 50 per cent and delivering 160 hours of energy storage, made an impression on the tour group.

Former Snowy Chief Operating Officer, Ken Lister, described the engineering on display as "truly world class" and was matched by the competence, courage and collaboration of the Snowy 2.0 workforce.

"It is obvious that the people of Snowy 2.0 are just as committed to delivering a project to Former workers at the Lob's Hole construction site.

'keep the lights on' as the former workers were in 'turning the waters westward,' Ken said.

Tumut resident, Ray Holloway, who worked as a fitter's assistant on the Tumut 3 power station build, said the scale of Snowy 2.0 was "amazing".

"The whole day was magnificent and to see the project like that was a memorable experience.

It's a lot bigger than I thought it was," Ray said.

Snowy 2.0 Project Director, Dave Evans, said it was a privilege to host former scheme workers onsite.

"We were incredibly proud to show them Snowy 2.0 and to acknowledge their contribution to this project," he said.

"Without them and the mighty Snowy Mountains

Scheme, we wouldn't be here today.

"We stand on the shoulders of those who came before us.

"Together, the Snowy Scheme and Snowy 2.0 will be critically important to underpin Australia's transition to renewable energy."

The Lobs Hole site tour followed a 75 years of the Snowy Scheme Former Worker Reunion event in Cooma and a range of community-led initiatives including an open day at the Snowy Scheme Museum in Adaminaby.

The final Snowy Hydro initiative for the 75th anniversary was the community open day at Tumut 3 Power Station on Saturday which attracted a record number of registrations.

Boring machines are making steady progress

The Snowy 2.0 pumped hydro megaproject has marked a significant milestone, with one of three tunnel boring machines (TBM), Lady Eileen Hudson, now two-thirds of the way through its second tunnel excavation.

The TBM is approximately four kilometres into the six kilometre 'tailrace' tunnel, which will link the lower Talbingo Reservoir with the massive 20-storey underground power station. TBM Lady Eileen Hudson previously completed a 2.85 kilometre main access tunnel, which is now being used by construction teams to reach the underground power station site.

Drill and blast works are also advancing at the Talbingo water intake, creating a new 700-metre tunnel between the intake structure and the tailrace tunnel. The Talbingo intake is located in very steep terrain and following excavation of 570,000 cubic metres of material over two years, the rock face is now 110 metres high.

Snowy Hydro CEO, Dennis Barnes, said that recent months have been some of the project's most productive. "Overall the project is around 60 percent complete and there's a strong sense of momentum, with good tunnelling progress by TBM Lady Eileen and other two TBMs performing well," Mr Barnes said.

"Snowy 2.0 is one of the most complex and challenging megaprojects underway in the world. There is an immense sense of pride in what's being achieved across the workforce of more than 3,000 people."

Mr Barnes said Snowy 2.0 will be the most significant addition to the National Electricity Market (NEM) since the original Snowy Scheme.

"Snowy 2.0 will have a generating capacity of 2,200 megawatts and an unmatched 160-hour storage capability, meaning it will be able to power around three million homes for a week," he said.

"While batteries and gas are important to store the excess energy from the increasing amounts of wind and solar in the grid, only pumped hydro can offer the long-duration storage needed to keep the lights on.

Corryong CBD Update

towongshire

Last week, we completed the concrete pour for Stage 4 in front of the Corryong Neighbourhood Centre, as well as for Stage 6 in front of the Arcade. Additionally, grass turfing was finished at the Australia Post and Memorial Hall corners.

This week, we will commence Stage 7 in front of the Corryong Courthouse Hotel. Temporary fencing will be installed as we start the demolition of the kerb and footpath.

Please be aware that temporary fencing will remain in place around the Telstra pits to allow for additional works.

To ensure the safety of community members and site workers temporary fences will be installed around work areas.

We thank you for your patience and cooperation as we carry out these tasks.

Power station caverns completed

 “Pumped hydro will also smooth energy price peaks during extended periods without enough sun and wind,” Mr Barnes said..

“Snowy 2.0 is on track to be delivered within the $12 billion budget and be complete by the end of 2028,” Mr Barnes added.

Across the project, more progress is being made:-

- In the underground power station complex, the caverns are more than 27 per cent excavated.

- All 196 of the very large brackets that will hold the temporary construction cranes to build the underground power station have been installed in the two power station caverns.

- When fully excavated, the Snowy 2.0

power station will be the equivalent of a 20-storey, 250 metre-long building, located 800 metres underground.

- At Marica, the 28-metre wide surge shaft is excavated to 123 metres or half of its final depth. The shaft will provide water storage when the power station starts up and pressure relief in the headrace tunnel when it shuts down.

- TBM Florence is progressing, excavating the 17-kilometre long ‘headrace’ tunnel that will link the upper Tantangara water reservoir to the underground power station, with more than 1,600 metres excavated. TBM Kirsten is performing to plan and is now excavating the 1.6-kilometre, very steep tunnel that will link the headrace tunnel to the underground power station. Ground conditions ahead of all TBMs are expected to be inconsistent and the performance of the machines will vary as a result.

- The NSW government is currently assessing the planning modification to enable a fourth project TBM, which is required to tunnel through a challenging geological fault zone.

- While health and safety performance is encouraging, it is an area in which the project is continually monitoring and looking to improve further. The project’s current total reportable injury frequency rate (TRIFR) is 2.42 (per million hours worked).

- The current LTIFR is 0.92.

The Corryong High School Class of 1969-1974 (above) celebrated amazing memories and friendships at a 50-year reunion on the weekend. The students who had ‘easily distracted’ on their report cards!

Club Corner:- The jackpot at The Club Corryong this Friday is $4050. Last week’s winner was Marg Davis ($25).

The Bullioh Football Netball Club is one of 233 community clubs which will share in $600,000 to promote road safety in their communities, as part of the TAC-AFL Victoria Club Rewards program. The Bullocks were the only club in the Upper Murray league to receive funding under the program.

Towong Elections:-

Provisional results for the Victorian Council elections are expected to be available online by tomorrow, Friday November 8.

Safety competition launched

The Victorian Transport Accident Commission (TAC) is offering young Victorians the chance to make a life-saving difference, with its 'Split Second' Competition returning for a sixth year - this time with an exciting twist.

The initiative, designed to engage young creatives from 18 to 30 in spreading critical road safety messages, calls for a compelling 45-second short film capturing the devastating consequences of a split second decision on the roads.

many young road users as possible across our multicultural state.

Entries are now open to filmmakers and content creators, who are asked to focus on two risky road safety behaviours: fatigue and not wearing a seatbelt.

Sadly, young drivers continue to be involved in more crashes resulting in death and serious injury than any other group of drivers, and one of the most critical factors in those incidents is fatigue. Further, research shows that, people aged 18-25 are most likely to have travelled as a driver and passenger without wearing a seatbelt, which are crucial to preventing fatalities and serious injury.

TAC Head of Community, Jacqui Sampson, said fatigue and hesitation around seatbelt use were silent killers on our roads.

"It only takes a split second for a life to be changed forever," she said.

"By engaging young filmmakers, we aim to bring fresh, impactful perspectives on how these risks can be prevented. Their creativity has the power to influence attitudes and behaviours, especially among their peers," said Ms Sampson.

"To encourage and celebrate as many new and diverse voices as possible, we're adding a brand new prize for young people with a multicultural background."

Not only championing road safety awareness, the TAC's Split Second Competition also offers young creatives a unique opportunity to gain industry recognition and kick-start their careers.

Last year's winner, Sati Ocal, said "Not only has the TAC's Split Second Competition allowed me to produce really meaningful content but it has also created a number of opportunities as I complete my study and look to take the leap into the creative industry."

If you're an aspiring filmmaker, emerging creative or social media whiz who wants to make a difference to the lives of young Victorians, visit www.splitsecond.au to learn more. Entry is open until November 24.

Duck count commences

The Game Management Authority (GMA) will begin its annual survey of Victoria's game duck population on Tuesday, 12 November 2024.

The aerial survey will be conducted by wildlife biologists who will record the presence, species and number of game ducks at more than 850 waterbodies across Victoria including wetlands, farm dams, sewerage treatment plants, streams and rivers.

The survey will also include ground counts where the survey helicopter is unable to operate.

Satellite imaging will then be used to determine the amount of wetland habitat available and, together with survey abundance estimates, used to estimate the total abundance of Victoria's game duck species.

The GMA is continuing this research in 2024 as part of the Victorian government's Sustainable Hunting Action Plan 2021-24 and commitment to introducing adaptive harvest management.

GMA Research Principal, Dr Jason Flesch, said regularly collecting data is critical to understanding what drives the abundance and productivity of game duck populations.

"Results from this survey will help to accurately estimate total game duck abundance, based on environmental conditions at the time," he said.

"This research benefits wildlife conservation by increasing our understanding of the ecology of Victoria's game duck populations and the health of their habitats."

The 2024 survey is scheduled to take place from next Tuesday until Friday 29 November. The flight schedule which includes Corryong Airport, may change from day to day, depending on weather conditions or other factors.

Residents in surveyed areas may see a helicopter flying at low levels for a short time and for no longer than is necessary.

The results of the survey will be published on the GMA website in 2025.

TEE TO GREEN

Corryong heads the table

In round four of the weekend pennant competition on Saturday, Corryong's B4 side hosted Kiewa on a perfect afternoon for bowling with all teams starting well.

As often happens, it's the luck of the draw with three teams playing and Corryong took full advantage.

Last week's champion team of Simon Donadon, Leif Kamba, Ken McKimmie and Col Smedley met Kiewa's best and fought all the way to a low scoring 17-14 win. Darren Vandervalk's team of Peter Griffiths, Roy Byrne and Adrian Cumiskey bowled well to win comfortably 21-13 while the third combination Alan Johnston, Clayton Murphy and Malcolm Jarvis, led by Noel Blake, faced an opposition that struggled to come to terms with the slower green, winning 45-9.

The final score of 83-36 and maximum points moved Corryong to the top of the table after four rounds.

The games were played in good spirit with the general consensus from Kiewa being "wait until we get you on our greens, newly carpeted and much faster!" Stay tuned.

Men's championships decided

Following the third round of the men's championships on Sunday, Pat Kamba has won the A Grade title, defeating Justin Knott, by six shots.

Going into the final round, Kamba held a six shot lead over Knott but after racking up a couple of bogeys and a double on the back nine, the margin had shrunk to three. However, Knott also found himself in trouble in the run home and the lead blew back out to six shots.

In B Grade, Mark Collins went back-to-back after setting up a big lead in the first two rounds. Newcomer, Seb Matthews, held his nerve and his form to claim the C Grade title in his maiden season.

For the second week running the 'eagles nest' was emptied after Justin Knott played the par-five in three.

Following a Special

After eight weeks away from the course with injury, Bill Bond is back! After just one round to work out his new set of hybrid clubs, Bondy was back in the winner's circle, carding a fine 21 points to win R2 of the Summer Cup.

Laurie Williams bounced back from a shocker in R1 to finish second with 20 points, one ahead of veteran Bill Sheather. Rob Cox was probably still recovering from jet lag and hadn't seen a sand scrape for two months, so he found the going tough. However, the club's pennant captain will bounce back quickly and will lead by example in coming weeks.

The 9@9 competition continues this Saturday - names in by 8.30 and visitors are most welcome (no GA handicap required).
